NEWS COMMENTS.

North Pacific stock, 44%; preferred, 92%.

The Grand Forks Herald says Judge Curtis will sue the News, of that city, for damages.

Sioux City Journal: Bismarck, Dak., has voted to reform; and there the democrats are not happy.

St. Paul is soon to have a new national bank with $50,000 capital, under the presidency of Walter Mann.

Among the slain is Congressman Burrows, of Michigan, who is credited with preventing the division of Dakota last winter.

George H. Walker, of Grand Forks, declines to be president of the territorial council, and recommends J. O. B. Mooney, of Brookings, for the place.

The Georgia legislature has elected Pope Barrow to fill Hill's unexpired term in the senate, and ex-Gov. Colquitt for the long term commencing March 4.

The malignity and depravity that has been engendered by the late congressional canvass in the Fifth Minnesota would supply hell a year. And the end is not yet.

Born-on, of New Jersey, has arrived in Washington, and in the language of the dispatches he is "red and mad" over his defeat for congress. Most every one else is satisfied, however.

The St. Paul Globe says among the numerous election victories over which there is occasion for rejoicing there is none more notable than that of the Citizens' ticket in Burlington county.

Judge Curtis, of Grand Forks, who was behind in his accounts with the city, has paid over $7,212 into the city treasury, and immediately proceedings against him have been discontinued.

The Massachusetts Republican, which doesn't like the idea of Gen. Butler filling the office which has been honored by Andrew and Everett, waits thusly: Of all sad words of tongue or pen the saddest are these: "We've got to have Ben."

MINNEAPOLIS Journal: Bob Ingersoll says "it took some cheating, a— of a lot of lyn' and a— of industry to make St. Paul." It is evident that one thing, the council will have to do to be saved is to reform his vocabulary.

At a democratic meeting in Minneapolis a few nights ago, Mayor Ames declared that his opponent, Gov. Washburn, would never occupy a seat in the next congress. Ames recklessly charged that Washburn bought at least one-third of the votes given him.

Ever since the death of President Garfield ex-Surgeon General Barnes and Dr. Woodward, both of whom were in attendance on the president in his last illness, have been steadily declining in health. The friends of Woodward have lost all hope of his recovery, and Barnes also is very low.

MOONSHED News: It is said in Fargo that what makes Mayor Edwards' defeat the more exasperating, was the fact that the editor of the Argus had already laid plans to get the speakership. It also knocks the governorship of North Dakota higher than Beecher's "Life of Christ." Hasn't Fargo made a fool of herself?

During one of his last lecture tours through the west, General Judson Kilpatrick said to an acquaintance, concerning General Custer: "He was a very brave officer. Had his balance and judgment equalled his courage he would have been a very great man. In fact, we were all too young. Had I then had this bald head I would have been a far better man in the field. Custer was in the class behind mine at West Point and was always in trouble. He never had a Saturday free, but was always on guard in punishment of some freak or other." Of General Sherman, Kilpatrick said: "He is brave and gentle, and would bear a great deal before he would speak up in his own defense."

This result in the Fifth Minnesota district still remains in doubt. The Evening Journal, of Minneapolis, a kindred paper, has the following dispatch from Brainerd, dated Nov. 15: The Evening Journal correspondent has been investigating such official returns from the Fifth district as have been received. They include all but Cass and Itaska counties, and give Nelson over 4,000 majority. The returns from Cass and Itaska are also in, but the auditor refuses to canvass them until he gets ready. They will be counted to-morrow, and may or may not overcome Nelson's majority. One thing is certain, however, they will be honestly counted. Kindred is not holding them to doctored them up as the Nelson men assert. Parties who were in Cass and Itaska during the election say the vote was a large one. There have been a large number of lumbermen going into the district for two months past, and many of the camps were full. The allegations of the Nelson men that there are nothing but Indians in Cass county is met by the fact that the county issued $75,000 bonds a couple of years ago to build a court house, for which an Indian population would have little use. The whole matter will probably be settled to-morrow, however, with the canvass of the vote in the two counties. In the meantime Kindred is not discouraged.

For some time there has been going on a sharp controversy between the Miles City Press and Journal. Now that Knight has resorted to poetry it looks as if John X. had got his man foul.

The whole of New England may be democratic if it wants to, but Dakota will roll up the majorities for republicanism. A democratic county in Dakota is yet to be heard from.

"ANTELOPE are numerous in Griggs county," says the Yankton Press and Dakotian. Let's see: The county that gave Capt. Maratta 900 majority.

BRAVE BEAR SWINGS.

A FULL ACCOUNT OF THE EXECUTION.

Bad Railway Accident in Wisconsin—Big Farm Sold at Fargo—Daily Record of Crime and Calamity, Etc., Etc.

Brave Bear's Death.

YANKTON, Dak., Nov. 15.—Brave Bear, the Sioux Indian chief convicted of the murder of Joseph Johnson, near Fort Sully, on the 15th of May, 1879, was hanged to-day in the jail-yard, the execution being private. The Indian was taken from the jail to the United States marshal's office in one of the upper rooms, and there bound with straps, leaving his feet free so that he could walk to the scaffold. After his arms were pinioned he called for a man who could talk Indian and with little delay the interpreter was procured from outside, and Brave Bear had a few moments' private conversation with him in his Sioux language. He made no confession, but did not deny the deed for which he was convicted. He asked the interpreter to send word to his people to kill no horses and to omit all the customary mourning exercises. He also asked that the message he had sent to his people be conveyed to the president of the United States, that the great father might know that he had given good advice. At the conclusion of his talk Brave Bear was led to the place of execution, just outside the building. He mounted the scaffold with a firm tread, and stood upon the trap, which was soon to drop from beneath him and hurl him into eternity. His legs were securely pinioned by straps and buckles, the rope was adjusted about his neck. The awful moment had arrived, and the black cap was drawn over his face. Then most of the attendants stepped back to the sides of the platform. Brave Bear was beginning to weaken, and it was necessary for a couple of officers to stand near to sustain him. In his nervous agitation he caught hold of the drooping rope as it swung in front of him, and clung to it with the fingers of his pinioned hands. An officer released his hold and moved the rope back out of his reach. Thus he stood bound hand and foot, with his head covered by the black cap, awaiting the signal which was to send him to instant death. A priest advanced to his side and whispered a few words of prayer, and then stepped back to the edge of the platform. The officer in charge pulled a string, which rang a bell in the marshal's office. A man concealed in the room, in response to the signal, jerked the rope attached to the trigger under the scaffold, and at 12:30 o'clock the drop fell. The Indian shot through the opening, and as the rope pulled there was a cracking sound. He struggled for a few moments, but the end came quickly. Soon there was nothing but a convulsive twitching of the muscles, and in fifteen minutes from the time the drop fell Brave Bear was pronounced dead by the attending physicians. Fifteen minutes later the body was cut down and delivered to the undertaker, who caused it to be buried in the Catholic cemetery. There was little excitement attending the execution, and everything was orderly. This is the first instance where an Indian has been hung in Dakota for crime against a white man.

Missed and Made Up.

New York, Nov. 15.—Negotiations which have been pending for several months between the Western and New York associated press culminated to-day by a unanimous agreement for a joint management. The proposition came from the New York associated press, and was accepted by the board of directors of the Western associated press. The management is placed in the hands of a joint committee, Richard Smith and Walter N. Haldeman, representing the Western associated press, and Whitelaw Reid, of the Tribune, and Thos. B. Connery, of the Herald, representing the New York associated press. Mr. Charles A. Dana, of the Sun, was elected chairman of the committee, who entered upon their duties this afternoon. A further meeting will be held to-morrow, when a plan of service will be adopted. The Western associated press has, since the termination of the contract between the associations, perfected a cable service which has proved to be superior in many respects to that of the New York associated press, and also organized a new service in the east. The work of readjustment will continue until all differences are disposed of, and there will be but one general service. New contracts will be made with the Western Union Telegraph company.

Another Railroad Tragedy.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 15.—To-day a bad accident occurred on the Omaha company's eastern division at Roberts station, twenty miles east of Hudson. A stock train in charge of Conductor O'Connor was stopping for water. O'Connor, a brave man named Govern, an engineer named Finn, and a man to whom belonged some of the stock, were in the caboose, when a freight train dashed into the end of the caboose, setting fire to it. Those upon the engine jumped to save their lives, but those in the caboose were caught in a trap from which escape was impossible. Govern managed to crawl out, but one arm was torn from its socket, and he died from loss of blood in an hour. Finn was badly injured, but may recover. O'Connor was burned to death, and nothing but his bones were recovered. The stockman was also killed. It is said the men in charge of the caboose were asleep, and that they knew the freight train was coming and should have looked out for it. The freight was coming around a curve and didn't see the stock train till too late. The engine of the freight, caboose and one car of the first train were damaged.

Another Dakota Murder.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 15.—Martin Wolf, a saloon-keeper, was murdered by William Macomber, of Carroll, Iowa. The two parties were friends, but friendship ceased to exist after Wolf sold his saloon. Macomber then believing Wolf to have money on his person, shot him dead as he was preparing to take a ride. The ball entered the forehead and lodged in the back part of the head. Macomber then fired the prairie grass around the body of his victim, so that it would not be found. It did not answer his purpose, however, and he was arrested here while playing cards, but he shot himself before he could be secured.

The Tar and Feather Artists Excited.

GRAND FORKS, Nov. 15.—Several of the principal actors in the tar and feather scrape are getting excited. J. H. Parsons, attorney, returned last evening, and if the case comes up before the next term of court, he will be assisted by a prominent attorney of St. Paul. The matter will no doubt come before the grand jury, and it is said they will find no indictment. It is understood that no effort will be made to have Elliott indicted for the crime he was charged with by the mob. The court does not sit before the 21st, and nothing but a preliminary arrangement will be made at present.

Big Sale in Fargo.

FARGO, Nov. 15.—The Stickney-Smith farm, near Fargo was sold to-day for $42,000. This farm consists of 1,920 acres, and was purchased five years ago. The land and improvements costing $39,000. It is said $150,000 has been cleared in this time besides the selling price. The sale was made by the new firm of Doty, Dunan & Curtis, of which Col. Dunan is one of the leading spirits. This sale is one of the highest cash transfers ever made in the valley.

A Whack at Bossism.

New York, Nov. 15.—The board of trade adopted the following: Resolved, That the result of the recent election is a gratifying response to the work of this board and kindred organizations in educating the people to resist encroachments upon their political and commercial rights, and an earnest that they will in the future support such men and such parties as will restrain corporate power, and place a limit on its exaction, upon the people.

Grant on Porter.

New York, Nov. 15.—Gen. Grant's new magazine article is entitled "An Undeserved Stigma," and is a concisely written review of the case of Gen. Fitz John Porter, giving the grounds for his former belief in Porter's guilt, and his present conviction of his entire innocence, and appeals to the government and the country for prompt action in Porter's behalf.

A $30,000 Steal.

New York, Nov. 15.—A package which ought to have contained diamonds to the amount of about $30,000, shipped on board the steamer City of Chester, and consigned to the firm of Louis Strasburger & Co., Maiden Lane, was on opening in the examining room of the appraiser's department found stuffed with paper.

A Deadly Duel.

then fled. Walters went to his house and found the statement true. A large posse of citizens are in search of the murderer. No cause for the deed is assigned.

An Appalling Warfare Begun.

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—The Tolleston club, of this city is composed of many influential and wealthy men. Being owners of several thousand acres of marsh land, in Lake county, Indiana, they procured the passage of stringent game laws, and so incurred the enmity of pot hunters of that section. In retaliation the latter secured the passage of a law making it a misdemeanor to carry out of the state game shot within its boundaries. A few days ago a couple of poachers were arrested and fined, and now the poachers have caused the arrest of Judge Knickerbocker, of the probate court of this city, and F. S. Howe, president of the club, and they have been bound over for a hearing and the charge of illegally exporting game from the state. A general war between sportsmen and market hunters is looked forward to.

No More Blind Pools for Me.

[Chicago Tribune.] Charles was a little boy who loved his Mother dearly, and whenever she told him anything he was careful to obey.

One day in the Spring, when the birds were singing and the buds on the apple trees were almost ready to burst into beautiful white blossoms, Charles asked his Mother for Ten Cents to buy Marbles for the ground was getting dry and the other boys were beginning to enjoy their favorite sport. "You can have the money, my son," said the Mother, "but you must promise me not to play for Keeps; and every night that you can come home and tell me truthfully that you have not disobeyed your Mother, I will give you a Large Red Apple." And then she kissed him fondly, and he went gayly to school.

But before Charles had gone very far he met Thomas Tough, who was a Bad Boy. Charles told Thomas about the Ten Cents that his Mother had given him to buy Marbles with, and also told him that he could not play for Keeps unless he was willing to go without the Red Apple.

When Thomas heard this he said: "Give me the Marbles that you are going to buy, and I will play with them for Keeps, and after school is out we will divide what I have won, for I am a Superior Player. Then you can truthfully tell your Mother that you have not been playing for Keeps, and will receive the Red Apple."

So Charles gave his Marbles to Thomas, and after school was out asked him how many Marbles he had won.

"I did not win," replied Thomas. "I struck a Hard Crowd, and lost."

Then Charles was sad, for he was a pretty Tight-Fisted little boy, and began to Cry. But presently he said to Thomas: "You are a naughty boy, and I hate you Very Much."

And then Thomas hit Charles in the nose, and threw him down in the Dirt, making his new pants look very bad indeed.

So when Charles reached home he told his Papa all about his troubles. When he had finished his Papa said to him: "You don't know as much as Thompson's Colt, and I am going to take a Crack at you myself."

Then he gave Charles a good Licking, and sent him to bed without any Supper. And when Charles had laid on his Stomach for a while, because he felt more comfortable that way, he said to himself: "No more Blind Pools for me."

Does't you think he had a Great Head, children? I do.

Death of Col. O'Connor.

From the Deadwood Pioneer it is learned that Col. J. C. O'Connor, the well-known former agent of the Peck line of steamers is dead. The Pioneer says: "Col. J. C. O'Connor, whose death occurred in New York about a week ago, will be remembered by a number of our citizens as the general business manager of the Peck line of Missouri river steamers, who was in Deadwood a year ago last winter to settle up some freight matters connected with the Stand-by mill. The death was from diphtheria, and followed close after the death of three of his children by the same disease. His wife and two children survive him. Col. O'Connor first came to Dakota in 1868, as clerk of the commission headed by Gen. Harney, which came west to treat with the Sioux. After the commission had finished its work the colonel was appointed inspector of Indian agencies, and later Indian agent at Grand river. The colonel was one of the oldest river men in the west. He always had a good word for everybody and was liked by all who knew him."

THE NEWS.

THE JOYS AND BORROWS OF YESTERDAY CHRONICLED.

Duluth Excited Over an Alleged Silver Discovery—The Garfield Monument—Latest Move in the Railroad Rates War.

A Rustler's Sad Fate.

PANAMA, Nov. 16.—A young merchant of Barbacoas, named Porter, in company with some friends, established himself on a bend in the river Putamay, among the virgin forest which there covers every foot of ground. They erected a house, made a small clearing, and already saw their way to profitable business, when they were visited by a number of Geven-tos Indians who came ostensibly to trade. They were received well and were apparently satisfied, but suddenly they attacked and killed the Colombians, and afterwards cooked and ate them. Indians never before visited Putamay, and no one has ever fallen in with them on the Amazon. Other tribes have also made their appearance in different places, and it is believed that some more powerful tribes are driving the weaker ones from the heart of the unknown forest, or that they are voluntary emigrants, who will murder and plunder whenever opportunity offers. Residents on the frontier also suggest that they may have been driven from their homes.

He Was Not What He Seemed.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 16.—Detective Hoy returned to-day from a trip up north, bringing with him a prisoner named Jas. D. Campbell, who is wanted to answer to a charge of false pretences, preferred by Goykendall Bros., of Minneapolis. The firm alleges that some time since Campbell, who then kept a store at Richwood, twelve miles from Detroit, Minn., made certain representations to them whereby they trusted him for goods valued at $317. He subsequently failed and this bill was not paid, and they allege that the representations made to them were false. Hoy went to Richwood but found that Campbell had departed for Fargo, whither the officer followed him, and induced him to accompany him to Minneapolis without the formality of papers. Campbell was arraigned, and the case continued for hearing, bail being fixed at $1,500 which was given.

Great Excitement at Duluth.

DULUTH, Nov. 16.—Glowing accounts reach this city of recent rich discoveries of silver ore at a point twelve miles east of Pigeon river, on the Canadian side of the international boundary line. Gen. Wilde, who has been prospecting in that region three years in company with a Frenchman named Darnett and Dan McPhee, with aid of Indians, succeeded in finding what is reported to be the richest silver vein on the continent. It is said that inch pieces of almost pure native silver have been picked up from the surface of the vein. Gen. Wilde and associates have, it is said, refused $300,000 from the Silver Islet company for their claims. A small force is already at work and the proprietors confidently expect to turn out, by the crudest methods, $150,000 worth of silver this winter.

The Knights and the Monument.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 16.—The movement to raise $50,000 for the Garfield monument by contributions from the state encampment of Knights Templar, equivalent to $1 for each Knight, is meeting with gratifying success, official communications being already received from encampments of half a dozen states pledging a proper sum, and similar responses are expected from the remainder of the states. In recognition of this fund the Knights Templar have been admitted to one-quarter representation in the Garfield Monument Association, and will be given the privilege of directing a corresponding proportion of the inscriptions, insignia and other embellishments of the monument.

Another Boiler Explosion.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 16.—A boiler on the premises of Peter Reuhl & Co., picture frame manufacturers, on Sycamore street, near Seventh, burst this afternoon, causing a panic among the occupants of the upper story of the five-story building. The building was set on fire, besides having the floor above the engine blown to pieces, and a portion of the wall blown out. Louis Meyer, helper for the foreman, was thrown into the street and fatally injured. Frank Beltner, one of the employees, was badly scalded. Chris Geise, Albert Post and Frank Weiss were slightly injured. Fire engines put out the flames and thus prevented a great calamity.

Singular Railway Accident.

An engine, which had been pushing the train, and started back, was soon overtaken and completely wrecked, although on seeing the danger the engineer increased his speed to forty miles an hour. The engineer had his wrist injured and his head badly injured, and a brakeman was injured seriously internally. The wreck was not cleared till 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The Rock Island Hits Back.

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—It is rumored here to-day that the Rock Island road had met the cut of the other roads running between here and St. Paul, by making a rate $5 from St. Paul to Milwaukee, thus carrying the war into the camp of the enemy. The Rock Island does not run to Milwaukee, but can bring passengers to Chicago and furnish them tickets to Milwaukee over other lines for $2.76, leaving the Rock Island $2.25. It is not known what the Northwestern and Milwaukee & St. Paul will do to offset this.

A Lunatic's Bloody Work.

Miraculous Escape.

[Minneapolis Evening Journal.] F. H. Kirtel, editor of the Maudan Pioneer, was in the city to-day. He reports a very lively time during election at Bismarck and Maudan, so hot that the escape from bloodshed was almost miraculous. There was a belligerent gnawing for Col. Lonsberry, for several days, but the genial colonel still tries to defy his enemies.

IMPERFECT PAGE

The Bismarck Tribune.

BISMARCK'S BRIGHT FUTURE.

Hon. Fred. Billings, the largest individual stockholder in the North Pacific company writes a friend: "I have been busy on the line of the North Pacific two or three weeks, and have just returned. I think there is no better portion of our country for settlement and business prospects than that region. * * * If the weather holds good the road will reach Bozeman in January and will certainly run cars through to the Pacific some time next year. Fargo and Moorhead, it seemed to me, had been boomed quite enough for the present, but nearly every town west of Fargo will do to settle in. The road from Sanborn north will help that place. Jamestown will certainly be a large place. As to Bismarck I can't see why that is not to be a very large and important point, Mandan to the contrary notwithstanding. There will be a line of road north of the Missouri before long, and it will start from Bismarck. I know towns on the west bank of important rivers are generally better business points than those on the east bank, but the situation of Bismarck is so very fine, and that of Mandan inferior, that I do not see how Mandan can injure Bismarck. I think both will grow together and be very important places." So writes one of the wealthiest and shrewdest men in the land, who has made millions in western investment. He has made large investments in and around Bismarck and refuses to sell any of his property, although he will probably improve it next summer. He is now a director in the North Pacific and was its president before Mr. Villard. His statement that a line will be built north from Bismarck is conclusive evidence that it will be so, for Fred Billings never wrote a friend to mislead him. Sunday the surveyors of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road arrived and report an excellent line from Forestburg. The Chicago & Northwestern surveyors are also in the field, and will reach Bismarck sometime during the week. Both companies intend to build to Bismarck by the time the North Pacific is completed, surely some time next year. The certainty of these roads reaching Bismarck will have a wonderful influence on the location of the capital of North Dakota, for the territory will surely be divided at the coming session of congress. The fact that several lines of road concentrate their business at Bismarck, taken in connection with the fact that the river business always has and always will be done on the east side of the river at this point, settles the question as to where the great town on the Missouri river will be. It will be at Bismarck. The lines of road coming from the south will build their shops at Bismarck and will do their part toward building it up with a view to gaining favor among the people and trade from the business men.

BISMARCK for the next few months will attract more attention than any other town in the northwest. The Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad engineers are within twenty miles of the city, surveying a line from Aberdeen to Bismarck, and another line is being surveyed by the Chicago & Northwestern. A line is also about to be located from Bismarck north following up the river to Benton, on which work will be commenced next season. The construction of these three roads will add much to the business of Bismarck and property will increase in value at a wonderful rate. Already wholesale houses are gaining a foothold and ere many months pass Bismarck will be noted for the strength and popularity of its houses of this sort. Some fine buildings are in prospect for next season and bets can be had that 500 buildings will be erected at Bismarck during the year 1883, among them some manufacturing enterprises. Quite a number of important real estate transactions have occurred of late in view of the certainty of the coming boom. The Van Ethen sale of one quarter section for $20,000 cash was followed by a sale of one-half interest in the McKenzie addition for $15,000, thirty thousand dollars being refused for the whole. Numerous other transfers have also occurred, all of which show increasing confidence in Bismarck and its surroundings.

MANUFACTURING enterprises will do most toward building up cities, and it is well to encourage them in every possible manner. It is frequently done by direct donations and sometimes by exemption from taxation for a term of years. In newly developed countries taxes are usually high, and the fear of excessive taxation frequently keeps back investment. Would it not then be wise to secure the passage of a law this winter that would exempt from taxes all capital invested in manufacturing in the territory during the next five years. Manufacturing enterprises produce wealth and add largely to the population of the cities where they are located. Five hundred thousand dollars invested in manufacturing in a town will add millions to the wealth of that locality and produces other taxable values. To relieve from taxation during the infancy of the enterprises is a policy that has often been adopted and has always brought satisfactory results.

It was crooked work in the republican convention in New York that led to the popular uprising in that state which has overwhelmed the republican candidates, and rolled up unprecedented majorities against them. Administration interference and anti-Conklingism were also elements in the canvass. The people arose in their independence and asserted their rights to choose whom they would have to serve them. It does not follow, however, that they have repudiated republicanism. It does not follow that New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Massachusetts are from this time on democratic. But it does follow that the people demand better and fairer methods in politics. It follows that would-be bosses who seek only personal advantage must step to the rear and give place to those who will seek the public good.

As time passes on every candidate defeated at the recent election in Burleigh county, will see that advantage was brought to Bismarck through the election of the Citizens' ticket. They will see that confidence was given, that has led to extensive investment, and that through that confidence hundreds of people will be induced to put their money into business or building enterprises, that will result in wonderful advantage to Bismarck. The Van Ethen sale, which has resulted from the election, makes John Quinlan's farm worth double the sum it was rated at three months ago—makes it worth at least $15,000. It improves the value of every foot of real estate in the city, not because the old officers were dishonest, but because there was a lack of confidence growing out of the fearful stories that had been told of Bismarck, and a change was demanded. Bismarck was held responsible for their mistakes, and for the h—, to use an expressive term, that had been raised in the county since its first settlement; and until a radical change was made in the offices, the county was estimated by what had been done instead of by the present disposition of the people. No matter how much we had really changed for the better—no matter if the keno halls were suppressed, and other evils were crowded aside and hid, the past was not forgotten, and a feeling was indulged that the old days might return.

The election of the Citizens' ticket ushers in a new era—an era of confidence—an era of improvement, and even the defeated can win glory and satisfaction from defeat by accepting the situation, and joining hands with all good boomers.

Let us hear no more of downing the brick block; no more of opposition to Sunday school people; no more of threats to run people out of the county because they exercise according to their own will their right of suffrage. Let all good works be encouraged; let pride in our city be stimulated; let faith in its commercial importance be enlarged; and let us have more of charity, and less of enmity toward one another, and we shall not look in vain for prosperity.

MONEY is one of the worst evils in politics, and usually proves disastrous to those who depend upon it to carry them through. It us offends those who cannot be bought, and causes them to redouble their energies to defeat those who go into the market to buy votes. Those who can be bought are unreliable and are likely to oppose the mercenary candidate who does not pay them for their services, or betray him if he does buy them. It can only be used to advantage in arranging for the campaign; in providing teams to get the voters to the polls; in distributing documents; and in meeting the legitimate expenses of those selected to work. When applied beyond this it becomes an element of weakness that usually does and ought to bring overwhelming defeat.

THERE is an ominous silence in relation to the returns from the pine counties in the Fifth Minnesota district. Not counting the vote from these counties Mr. Nelson is elected over Kindred by several thousand majority, but the returns from the pine woods are being held back, and Nelson's friends believe with a view to doctoring them. Kindred's friend confidently claim his election, and if the certificate of election is awarded to him of the returns from these new and practically unsettled counties Nelson will contest. Governor Gilman and others in the interest of Mr. Nelson are patiently waiting at Brainerd for the returns to come in.

HON. E. A. WILLIAMS is elected to the legislature by upwards of three thousand majority. He is well known in South Dakota where he has many warm personal friends. He is an experienced legislator and would make an excellent speaker of the house, for which position the Tribune nominates him, confident that his worth is more than likely to receive that recognition.

CONCERNING Capt. Maratta 900 majority in Griggs county, Mr. Nickless has about 400 majority, which cannot be overcome by the 300 majority reported from the unorganized counties west of Morton.

An Outrage on The Public.

EDITOR BISMARCK TRIBUNE:—Permit me through the columns of your widely circulated paper to caution the public against the dangerous condition in which two bridges are that have recently been constructed across Turtle creek and Painted Woods creek are in. The general structure of these bridges is such as to strike terror into the hearts of all who cross them. The string pieces are of light cottonwood, without any support in the centre, and the motion caused by teams crossing is so great that a person is in danger of going to the bottom any moment. Many have expressed the opinion that such will be the fate of the first heavy load that undertakes to cross. The ends of the timbers, too, in the abutments project out, leaving a splendid opportunity for ice to catch and carry the entire structure away.

The sites selected for these bridges are two of the worst that could be found in that vicinity.

Repairs upon the road or public highway between Painted Woods postoffice and Falconer's ranch have been made of late, and are about in keeping with the work herein mentioned. Ploughing, for instance, on the face of hills and allowed to remain in that condition, is an outrage on the traveling public, and should at once be looked after by the proper parties. If the county commissioners have not yet paid for this work they should send a committee to view it before auditing the bills. It would be an outrage upon the public to allow such a swindle.

CURRENT COMMENT.

The murder of Russell at Billings caused great excitement in Deadwood, where he was well known.

The Yellowstone Press, Glendive, deserves credit for its enterprise in getting out an election extra.

The Grand Forks Herald a few days ago celebrated its first birthday. The Herald is the most enterprising and best edited paper in Dakota.

The Minneapolis Journal thinks Grover Cleveland was a big man in the mayor's chair of Buffalo, but he may look thin when spread out over the whole state of New York.

A good many people are glad that Ben Butler is elected, because of his magnificent stick-to-it-iveness—to the thinking of the average American the most admirable of all the virtues.

INTER OCEAN; Dakota is to be the most prosperous of the states of the new northwest, and to lead in the development of the great wheat basin or belt, toward which the eyes of Europe as well as America are turned.

The Minneapolis Tribune breaks into jubilant ecstasy over Ames' defeat, thus:

W. D. Washburn killed a calf. Cut him up and eat him half. Turn his hide up the rear wall. Cut him down and eat him all.

THE TRIBUNE rooster, which crowed the other morning on the first page, is receiving complimentary notices all round. The Billings Herald says: "The Bismarck Daily Tribune of the 8th has a rooster, which, if there were nothing else in the paper, would make it a good one."

The type-setter of the Casselton Reporter having gone out into the country to shoot a land shark who has contested his claim, the editor had to doff his frilled shirt and set up the paper himself. His kick, however, was no match for that of the "devil," who had to go over the galleys and turn the type right side up.

An exchange says, little Alex. Stephens has an excellent opportunity to make a good record as governor of Georgia. The better class of people look to him for an exemplification of the doctrine of civil service reform, and it is understood that he will not remove any officer in the state department found doing his duty.

The solid old republican commonwealth of Michigan has elected a democrat for governor. The thing happened solely in consequence of the personal unpopularity of Gov. Jerome, who was running for re-election. Although the average republican majority in Michigan is 20,000, Jerome was beaten by 10,000. The balance of the republican ticket was elected by a good majority.

The Minneapolis Tribune thinks the present difficulty between the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and Rock Island roads, will develop into the greatest war of rates ever known in the history of American railroadings. The managers of the two lines have tried for the last forty days to come to some agreement, but in vain. Now the dogs of war are turned loose and the public gets a benefit.

The Jamestown Capital, referring to the late election here, says all who have watched the war have been interested in the success of the Citizens' ticket, and are pleased to know that it has succeeded beyond all expectation, and adds: "The Tribune, in its happiness over results, looks like an illustrated advertisement of a poultry show, and one can almost hear the exultant crow of the monster rooster on the first page."

HERE is a good word from the Fargo Republican: The good citizens of Bismarck and Burleigh county, headed by the gallant Col. Lounsbury, of the Tarnoxia, put up a Citizens' ticket against the regular one, which had been nominated by the bulldozers, ringsters and shysters. The honest and respectable citizens of Burleigh county came to the front and did their work well. Their action will do much to boom Bismarck, and convince the outside world that the honest and respectable element controls there.

The Grand Forks ruffians who tarred and feathered Dr. Elliott doubtless begin to wish they were well out of the scrape. A Grand Forks telegram says: Wm. Elliott, of Almont, Ont., father of the man recently tarred and feathered here, has arrived and has been in consultation with his attorney, J. H. Parsons. The latter has left to consult with ex-Gov. Davis or Bill Erwin at St. Paul, with a view to retaining them to assist. Elliott is worth $250,000, and in an interview to day said he was willing to expend half of it in bringing the parties guilty of the assault to trial.

The self-deprecating young man who usually sets the type for the country newspaper is commonly referred to in the village as "the printer." He goeth not much in society. He dazeleth not the fancy of the homespun belle, and the ginger-bread bean careth for him not a penny. Yet verily the setter of types is a sanctuary of genius, yes, he is a brick, and he hath his peculiar pleasures. He teacheth his mind of very names of whisky on the sly, and when the names of the homespun belle and the ginger-bread bean appeareth in the village paper, they scarcely know it. For they are all badly spelled. Verily they are not the sweetest names their mothers gave them, but something else entirely. Selah.

The murder of Judge Elliott, of Kentucky, a few years ago, by Col. Tom Buford, is still fresh in the public mind. On trial Buford was acquitted on the ground of insanity, and consigned to an insane asylum. It appears, however, that Buford has tired of his quarters and gone to Jeffersonville, Ind., and refuses positively to return to Kentucky. The affair has created a great sensation in Kentucky and much indignation has been expressed against the management of the asylum. Buford says he had been thinking of leaving the asylum for six months, as he was not going to be scooped up as a crazy man when he got out, and that his insane confinement was only a scheme gotten up by the judge and the lawyers. He says he killed Judge Elliott in the name of law and order, and if the interests of justice could be subserved by hanging him he was satisfied, but he would not admit that he was insane when he did the deed.

The Pioneer Press says: "Vice President Oakes let the cat out of the bag to a Pioneer Press correspondent in New York yesterday, giving away all the details of the arrangement between his read and the Manitoba.

The North Pacific turns over to the Manitoba 118 miles, and receives in return 100 miles. It is agreed that neither company shall build in the common territory, without first obtaining the consent of the other. In detail, the branch lines surrendered are these: The North Pacific gives up to the Manitoba the Casselton branch, forty-five miles; the Pelican branch from Fergus Falls to Pelican rapids, twenty-one miles; the Manitoba & Southwestern from Winnipeg to Nelsonville, forty-two miles; joint 118 miles. The Manitoba gives up to the North Pacific the Brown's Valley line, from Morris to Brown's Valley, forty-eight miles; from Breckenridge west forty miles and from Morris to a point east twelve miles, total 100 miles.

A JUDITH correspondent of the Benton Record gives the following account of a wedding which recently took place between John Higgin, of Judith, and Miss Big Neck, a dusky maiden of the Gros Ventre tribe: It was one of the most imposing affairs of the kind which it has been our privilege to witness for many years, and was performed by Iron Pipe, a renowned chief and medicine man of the Gros Ventre nation. The lodge in which the ceremony was performed was properly decorated with dried meat, which gave promise of plenty of good vittles, and was intended as a present from the bride's friends to the bridegroom. After the ceremony Bird chief made a speech in which he gave the bride and groom some good, sound advice, and pointed out to them the necessity of always keeping a good supply of grub on hand for the numerous visiting friends. Mr. Higgin made a touching and able reply in which he told them that it had always been his wish to join his fortunes with a lady whom he knew was loved and respected by all her friends as he knew he should never lack company, especially when the camp was close. The friends then partook of a splendid collation, consisting of dried meat, pemican, hard bread, Janicas ginger, etc., and then withdrew and left the happy couple to ponder on the changes and uncertainties of life.

The following was written by Oscar Wilde, on the debut of Mrs. Langtry, Nov. 7. It is a curiosity of æsthetic literature: It is only in the best Greek gods, on the silver coins of Syracuse, or among the marble figures of the Parthenon frieze that one can find the ideal representation of the marvelous beauty of that face which laughed through the leaves last night as Hester Grasebrook. Pure Greek it is, with the grave, low forehead; the exquisitely-arched brow; the noble chiseling of the mouth, shaped as if it were the mouthpiece of an instrument of music; the supple and arched line of the cheek; the angustly-pillared throat which bears it all; it is Greek because the lines which compose it are so definite and so strong, and yet so exquisitely harmonized that the effect is one of simple loveliness—purely Greek; because its essence and its quality, as the quality of music and of architecture, is that of beauty based on absolute mathematical law. But, while art remains dumb and immobile in its passionless serenity, with the beauty of this face it is different; the gray eyes lighted into blue or deepen into violet as fancy suggests fancy; the lips become flower-like in laughter, or tremulous as a bird's wing, molding themselves at last into the strong and bitter mold of pain or scorn; and then, when it comes, and the statue wakes into life; but the life is not the ordinary life of to-day—it is a life with a new value given to it—the value of art, and the charm to me of Hester Grasebrook's acting in the first scene of the play to-night was that mingling of classic grace with realistic reality which is the secret of all the finest art of the plastic; the Greeks and of the pictures of Jean Francois Miller equally.

The following able editorial appears in the Jamestown Alert: There is food for republican reflection in the result of the election at Fargo and Bismarck. In each of those places the masses of the party have repudiated some of the nominations made at the republican convention, to which they were urged by republican papers. It shows that the masses of the party are above party; that they are not mere cogs in the wheels of party machinery to be driven as the self constituted drive wheels may direct. They mean by this that they are independent freemen as well as members of the republican party. That principle and not party governs their ballot. On a larger scale the same impressive truths have been forced upon assumed leaders and bosses in New York and Pennsylvania. But it is a good thing for the party that this emphatic rebuke has been administered at this particular time, even though it brings the next two years will be under the control of the democracy. President Arthur was anxious almost to agony that the democrats should be kept in the minority for the balance of his term, for he knew if they gained the ascendancy, as they have, they would convert his bed of roses into one of thorns. This is the very thing they will do, and in doing so will make some of the egregious blunders for which that party is proverbial and which will bring down upon them the indignation and condemnation of the American people at the presidential election two years hence. Garfield was nominated as a representative of the better and anti-boss element of the republican party, and then two years ago he permitted the nomination of Arthur, expecting him to be only a mere figure head as president of the senate, not anticipating the calamity that made him the executive head of the government. If they had anticipated such a thing it is safe to say the name of the candidate of that convention would not have been Chester A. Arthur. Since his accession to the place made vacant by the death of Garfield at the hands of the assassin who claimed to be the viceregent of God and the agent of the assumed bosses of the republican party, the masses of the party have been compelled to look in shame upon the transfer of administration, and to recognize the appointments to those who are the bench men of the bosses who were so emphatically set down on at the Chicago convention, and have been waiting for the day of judgment, which came last Tuesday, at which time they put the seal of condemnation upon President Arthur because of his obvious identity with the Cameron and McKim domination. If the leaders of the party heed this warning the next congress and administration will be republican, but if not the scepter will surely pass into the hands of the democratic party.

The C. M. & St. P. Surveyors.

The party of Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul surveyors, who have been running the line from the southeast to Bismarck are encamped at a point about twelve miles east, and about four miles south of Clark. Surveyor-in-Chief Dunbar was in the city Monday purchasing coal and supplies. He stated that the party would return immediately over the route by which they came. Mr. Dunbar says he found an excellent country, and believes the report which he will make to the company will be entirely satisfactory to them. The line starts from a point south of Huron, and extends northwest across the territory to the North Pacific road, which it strikes at Apple Creek, six miles east of Bismarck. The present survey is made more with the view of ascertaining the character of the country through which the proposed road is to pass than of locating the line definitely.

The TRIBUNE has learned from first-class authority that this line will be built.

The Railway Rate War.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 11.—The agents of the different lines leading into Chicago are very busy to-day in taking hold of the change of passenger rates, and preparing advertisements and circulars extolling the virtues of their roads. Preparations for the breaking of the pool was made October 6, and was pushed upon the Omaha & Milwaukee line by the Albert Lea. At that time the Albert Lea did not affect the freight rates, which according to the pool last until November 30. At that time the freight rate will be changed, and either lowered on account of the Albert Lea, or raised on account of the river closing. The rate for tickets on the Milwaukee line and the Omaha line to Chicago, to-day was $5; the limited ticket rate of $12.50 being sold in St. Paul with a rebate at the Chicago end of the line. The tickets were on sale at their offices and at the Union depot at this rate. Early this morning the Albert Lea line put out placards in front of their office announcing the fare to Chicago $3. Tickets sold in their office only for $10 with $7 rebate in Chicago, Omaha and Milwaukee. People here say that they will probably keep it up until a new pool is formed. The Albert Lea people say they do not know how long the fight will keep up, but they will sell tickets to Chicago at a lower rate than the other roads, and that they would not be surprised to see the fare as low as $1 with a chrome thrown in. The number of tickets sold to Chicago was not greatly above the general run of business, and passenger traffic was light all around. The rates sent out are cut all around by reductions from St. Paul to Chicago, and tickets to eastern cities a being sold with the rebate off. The cut will not affect the north bound passenger rate, as the agreement made September 22d prevents this for some time to come. A conference was held yesterday by the Omaha and Milwaukee lines' passenger agents, and the result of was being patiently waited for. It is believed that they will act in unison in the matter throughout.

A Minneapolis Block in Ashes.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 13.—The most disastrous fire that has visited Minneapolis since the mill fire of last December broke out about 9 o'clock this morning in W. W. Eastman's building, commonly known as the Knickerbocker block, on Nicollet avenue, between Fourth and Fifth streets, and left the handsome structure a complete ruin, besides damaging the new Harburt block, adjoining. How the fire originated has not as yet been ascertained, but it broke out in the packing room of the Knickerbocker furniture house, in the basement in the rear of the building. The Knickerbocker block was occupied by the following persons and firms: The eastern half of the ground floor and basement by Midwestern & Taylor, wall paper and moulding; second floor by R. M. Neagles' studio, Miss L. E. Hay's dressmaking rooms, Miss Wright's cloak rooms, Ed. F. L. Blecken's insurance office and Dr. Wentworth's office; the westerly half of the ground floor and basement, and the entire third and fourth floors were occupied by the Knickerbocker furniture house. The block was owned by W. W. Eastman, who valued it at $40,000. His insurance is $23,000. The following are the complete losses and insurance: W. W. Eastman, loss $40,000, insurance $23,000; Knickerbocker company, loss $50,000, insurance $25,000; Midwestern & Taylor, loss $12,000, insurance $5,500; Mrs. Bancroft, loss $1,500, insurance $1,500; Miss Wright, loss $1,000, no insurance; Miss Ray, loss $1,200, insurance $500; Mrs. Neagle, loss $1,000, no insurance; Dr. Wentworth, loss $500, no insurance; Ed. F. L. Blecken, loss $500, insurance $350; Hayes, loss $1,000, no insurance; Harburt block, damage $3,000, insurance $25,000; Dyer & Howard, damage $8,000, insurance $15,500; J. W. Hinsdale, loss $1,000, insurance $1,000; others losses $2,500, insurance $1,000. Total loss $127,700; insurance $100,300.

Ben Butler's Victory.

BOSTON, Nov. 11.—The election of Ben Butler as governor of the Bay state is actually received by more than half the republican party, at least in Boston, as the practical joke of the season. Now that the thing is accomplished and Butler is actually governor-elect, scores and hundreds of straight republicans, whose loyalty to the city and loyalty to republican principles is unvarying and unquestionable, are acknowledging in a jovial sort of way that they cast a ballot for Ben "just for the fun of the thing." Perhaps nothing could better illustrate the laxity of party ties in New England during the present off-year. One does not hear very great lamentation over the result, for the reason, probably, that everybody knows Massachusetts has a large republican majority whenever she chooses to poll it. Tolerably authentic information is received that Butler's election has already brought about him a bevy of back politicians and president-makers from all parts of the state who for 1884, and who propose to be in early in order that they may reap corresponding benefit. It is more than suspected that Butler himself begins to listen to the buzzing of the presidential bee, and if he really decides to make a canvass for the democratic nomination, he will be a very good one to beat in the democratic national convention of 1884. He has more brains and wealth than Tilden, with twice the sagacity and mental and bodily vigor. If he starts in look out for the rattling of bones in the democratic camp.

An Artist's Hard Luck.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The Bierstadt place at Irvington, on the Hudson, owned by Albert Bierstadt, the artist, was destroyed by fire this morning. Henry T. Chapman, jr., member of the New York stock exchange, and his family, occupied the mansion during the past season, and yesterday morning returned to their home in Brooklyn, and this morning received a dispatch saying the elegant mansion was in ruins. The building was erected sixteen years ago at a cost of $100,000. A studio 75x50 feet, with ceiling 50 feet high was situated in the rear of the second story. Nearly every room contained from three to ten valuable pictures of the famous artist. In the library were two pictures of the Yosemite valley, valued at $1,000 each. The furniture was worth $10,000, and the pictures and curiosities are estimated to be worth nearly $100,000 or more.

A Low-Down Villain.

VINCENNES, Ind., Nov. 11.—This morning at 10 o'clock, as Mary A. Bishop, aged twelve years, was going to her home in Illinois, and when in full sight of the bridge connecting this city with Illinois, over which she had just passed, a tramp accosted her. Instinctively divining a foul purpose, she ran along the main road, endeavoring to reach her home before he could overtake her. She had not gone far, however, before the villain overtook her. He threatened to strangle her. She cried and attracted the attention of a young man named Iro Miller, who, with his companion, another young man, started for the scene, making as much noise as possible, and frightening the wretch from his purpose. Seeing they would reach him before he could accomplish his purpose he took the defenseless child by the feet, and holding her up so that her head barely touched the ground, kicked her twice, and dropping her, ran. He was soon overtaken, however, and had the young man had a rope, would have been lynched. They took him prisoner, and, summoning aid, he was taken to the Lawrenceville jail, where he is now confined, and where there is some talk of his being visited by Judge Lynch. He stated that he had frequently performed the same act before. He gives his name as B. F. Brooks. The girl was very much frightened and was a really bruised. She is a quiet, ladylike girl, living a short distance from the city on the opposite side of the river. The attempt was made upon the highway and in daylight, and the hardened behavior of the villain has excited the whole neighborhood.

Sensation at Des Moines.

DES MOINES, Nov. 13.—A profound sensation was caused yesterday by the finding of dynamite in a hazardous place at the International distillery. In the morning a letter was found, which read: "Mr. Smith—Dear Sir—There are fifty pounds of dynamite in the masher. It will explode at 140 degrees Fahrenheit, or a slight jar will explode it. Don't show this letter to anyone. This is no boys' play. We mean business. If you follow instructions there will be no danger to anyone." Babbitt & Kidd, the owners, were notified, and a search party found a cylinder of dynamite in the ingress pipes of the engine. No day the whole building was carefully gone over, and several more packages were found, weighing eight and a half ounces each. Various warnings were also found scrawled with chalk on the walls. One arrest was made today, and warrants are issued for others. It seems that Kidd, Babbitt & Co., the latter owning the masher and allowing them to be used on percentage, had a dispute about the yield of the distillery, and Babbitt & Co. undertook to remove the masher, but the difficulty was understood to have been smoothed over. Kidd now suspects Babbitt as being in the plot, and has sworn out a warrant for his arrest. There is a good deal of mystery about the affair, and the end is not yet.

Serious Railway Smash-Up.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Nov. 18.—A fast train on the New York Central collided with the Peekskill train at Peekskill to-day, and five passengers were seriously injured. The collision was caused by careless signaling. The engine of the Peekskill train was crossing from the down to the up track, and came into collision with the fast train, which left New York at 10:30 a. m., it being on the fast train's time. Both engines were badly damaged. The baggage car and drawing-room car "Rob Roy," of the fast train, was slightly damaged, but the next drawing-room car, "Verdant," had its west side torn open, several passengers were injured, three of whom were ladies. One of the ladies, Miss Katie Chatterton, of New York, had her hands cut by broken glass, but was able to return to the city. James D. Maxwell, of Amsterdam, N. Y., and Dr. Warren E. Derby, of Brooklyn, sat on the east side of the car, and when the collision occurred, plunged through the plate glass windows to the ground. Derby was badly cut about the face, head and hands, and both his eyes were blacked, but no bones were broken and he is out of danger. Maxwell was cut about the face and head. One rib was broken, and it is thought he was injured internally and may die. No one else received any injury of consequence. Trains were delayed two or three hours.

How Pat Kelly Looks At It.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Kelly, of St. Paul, who came here to attend the Doane silver wedding, left this evening for home. Mr. Kelly was not at all anxious to talk politics, saying that he came here for pleasure, and that he had mingled a little business with it. So far as the recent victories were concerned he was inclined to be very conservative. The democratic party stood a good chance for electing a president in 1884, but it could do nothing unless it chose popular men and played itself upon a platform that would be popular with the masses. The popular mind was more interested in the matter of fair freight rates, low interest, and for the free inland canal transportation, etc. The matter of a revision of the tariff, the improvement and education of the poor white and the colored people of the south were some of the issues to be faced. It would be a combination of principles and men in the campaign of 1884. If the democratic party leaders attempted to play bridge, there would be a stampede. The people were tired of boss rule and corruption, and they were going to have a free government conducted by men of their own choosing, and wanted no federal interference in state elections. He was not inclined to feel vain-glorious over recent victories of his party.

Terrible Boiler Explosion.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 13.—About five o'clock this afternoon a boiler in the Forest City iron works exploded with terrific force, killing four men, seriously injuring four or five others, and slightly wounding half-a-dozen more. The wonder is that a larger number were not killed, as nearly three hundred and fifty men were at work in the building, which is open at the ends and sides, all under one roof, with no partitions. The boiler was 18 feet long and 42 in diameter. A large part of the roof was torn off, and a fragment of the boiler was hurled a great distance. The cause of the explosion is unknown. The killed are: W. Atkins, a laborer, who was killed by the work, who had the top of his head blown off and both legs wrenched from his body; D. Wright, from Wyandotte, looking for work, top of skull cut off as by a knife, and brains scraped out clean, face blackened almost beyond recognition; John Gallagher, skull broken across the forehead and internal injuries; John Williams, first engineer, head smashed and body mangled. Atkins, Wright and Williams were killed instantly. Gallagher lingered three hours. Gallagher leaves a widow. Williams leaves a small family.

Sensational Attempt to Assassinate.

DUBLIN, Nov. 13.—A daring attempt was made to assassinate Justice Lawton, who presided at the trial of E. Dwyer Gray. The judge was passing through Clare street on the way to his club, when a man who was on the opposite side of the street acting in a suspicious manner, crossed and put his hand in the breast of his coat. A policeman near at hand seized the man and found upon him a revolver. The prisoner was taken to the station where he gave the name of Corrigan, although he was recognized as another person by the police. It is expected that other arrests will follow. This arrest is expected to lead to the discovery of important information on other matters. Justice Lawton was in no way disconcerted by the attempt on his life and proceeded to dine with the bench at King's Inn law temple.

Dickey County.

ELLENDALE, Dak., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—The vote of Dickey county was as follows: J. B. Raymond 232, J. C. Nickens 232, E. A. Williams 232, B. W. Benson 232, W. F. Ball 232. The county seat was located at Ellendale. There was not a democratic vote cast, and Dickey therefore with reason claims to be the banner county.

Vanderbilt's New Scheme.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 11.—T. C. Eastman, New York, W. H. Monroe, Albany, W. H. Vanderbilt, New York, and W. Arnold, Chicago, have formed a company with a reported capital of $1,000,000 to oppose the Chicago pressed beef enterprise of Hammond & Co., and Swift & Co., Chicago. They will open depots in every city where older firms have agencies now, and will sell the best beef brought from Chicago in the American refrigerator company's cars, at a price which will just cover expenses. This is considered a move to crowd out the pressed beef trade in the interests of live stock business and railway companies.

Diabolical Work in Pennsylvania.

READING, Pa., Nov. 11.—Another dastardly piece of train wrecking took place last night on the Philadelphia & Reading railroad, near Limerick station. It was evidently the intention of the parties to throw the late passenger train down an embankment at that point, as heavy timbers had been thrown across the track. An extra coal train came ahead of the passenger train and dashed into the obstruction. The locomotive was hurled down the bank and wrecked, the train's crew jumping for their lives. A number of cars were wrecked. The passenger got through safe.

The Land Officials at Mitchell.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—It is understood at Commissioner McFarland recommends the dismissal of the register and receiver of the land office at Mitchell, Dakota, because of alleged fraudulent transactions, charges of which were incorporated in a recent report of Inspector Holcomb. The report is now awaiting Secretary Teller's arrival. McFarland has not the power to dismiss the receiver, but he exercised his authority in dismissing Litcher, a clerk in the office, for appearing as an attorney and passing upon land cases.

The Usual Course.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 13.—The Appeal's, Columbus, Miss., special says: Last Monday evening near Bigby Valley, about twenty miles below here, Miss Pare, a white woman of loose reputation, was raped and murdered by a negro. Her body was found in the woods near the road with her skull fractured. The murderer was captured, examined and committed to jail. He escaped and was recaptured, and on Thursday night was taken from the custody of the justice of the peace by a mob of forty men and hung.

A Stunning Verdict.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 13.—An Ashland, Kentucky, special says: The coroner's jury inquiring into the death of Col. Reippert and others killed during the transfer of Neal and Craft from Cattleburg to Lexington, Ky., rendered a verdict finding that the deceased were killed by bullets fired from the guns of the state militia, on the steamer Granite State, guarding the prisoners Neal and Craft, and that said firing was not done in the line of their duty. Further, the jury hold Major Allen, commander of the troops, culpable for ordering the fire.

The Griggs County Seat Fight.

HOPE, D. T., Nov. 11.—The official returns have not been officially canvassed yet, but it is strongly claimed by Cooperstown people that the proposition to move the county seat of Griggs county from Hope to the former place, has carried, and accordingly wish to remove the records immediately. This is opposed by the Red River Land company, and an injunction has been served restraining any change until the votes have been officially canvassed.

O'Connor, the ex-priest who was prevented from delivering his lecture on Catholicism last evening, by the action of a mob, to-day published a card in which he declares that he will lecture if a hall is to be had in the city. He says by declaring that he will preach sooner than let a feather be lost from the sacred wing of liberty. One Catholic priest and other members of the church publicly denounce the mob.

Southern Wheat Traffic.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—There is consternation in the Southern railway association on account of the large wheat traffic being diverted from the pool to Minneapolis. Dakota and Minnesota wheat being held high the millers are buying a great amount in Kansas and Nebraska, diverting it from Chicago and demoralizing the business of the southern lines. It is stated it is cheaper to send wheat east via Minneapolis than Chicago.

The Election in Dakota.

YANKTON, Nov. 11.—There is no reason to doubt but what every county in the territory has gone republican except, perhaps, in the Black Hills. Raymond's majority will reach 20,000. There will be only one democrat in the council. The south Dakota will be republican, in the two western counties. Human, democrats of Vermillion, is elected and possibly one democrat from the fifth district.

Folger Feels Well.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Folger says the appointments of inspectors of foreign steamers will probably not be made for several days, that he finds it extremely difficult to find efficient officers for the low salaries provided by law. The secretary, in speaking about his health, said the reports about his being ill was entirely unfounded, and that at present he is feeling better than for several months past.

Indignant French Journals.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—The French journals, in leading articles this morning are very much incensed at the Egyptian government in suppressing European control, and attribute it to Lord Dufferin's influence. The department calls it brutal and illegal. The Justice says it illustrates the British bad faith and bad policy, even in the light of British interests.

LAUFMAN, Tex., Nov. 13.—A negro named Amanda Watts, had a difficulty some days ago with another negro, and out of revenge killed her child. Amanda was arrested, and while in jail gave birth to a child, which she killed Friday night by crushing its skull. The negro is not insane, but is a specimen of the most depraved of womankind.

Never Fails.

No lady can afford to smile,
Unless her teeth are like the snow;
And if she fails in this,
And can't afford to smile or kiss,
She must use SOZODONT, I trov.

Valuable Time

Is lost by farmers on account of their horses having sore necks and shoulders. This can easily be avoided by using Cole's Veterinary Carbolisave. It prevents inflammation, cures collar and saddle galls quickly, while the horse is being used, and invariably brings the hair in the collar color. W. F. Frison, St. Clair, Minn., says: "For bad collar galls, fresh cuts, or old sores, there is nothing that equals Cole's Veterinary Carbolisave. It is a big thing for horses and cannot be too highly recommended. I would not be without it for many times its cost." Found cans, $1.00; small cans, 50 cents.

TO ADVERTISERS.

The DAILY TRIBUNE circulates in every town within one hundred miles of Bismarck, reached by a daily mail, and is by far the best advertising medium in this part of the Northwest.

The WEEKLY TRIBUNE has a large and rapidly increasing circulation throughout the country, and is a desirable sheet through which to reach the farmers and residents of the small towns remote from railroad lines.

The indications point to fearful frauds in the lumber region of Minnesota in the interest of Kindred, and the clear majority for Nelson in the 5th district seems almost certain to be overcome.

There is abundant room for doubt as to the election of Capt. Maratta to the council. The indications are that he is beaten by a small majority, but he has made a splendid run all the same.

From the present outlook Grover Cleveland will be the next democratic candidate for president in 1884. Uncle Billy Sherman will be the republican candidate and will carry every state in the Union. Mark this for a prophecy.

The Sterling towns company will put lots on the market next week. The location is a beautiful one and the town promises to be important. Sterling is 28 miles east of Bismarck, half way to Steele, and is to be the Cassington of the Missouri slope. F. J. Call is agent for the sale of lots.

Over one hundred thousand dollars worth of real estate has changed hands in Bismarck since the recent election, and at a considerable advance over former prices. The election has given confidence and has done much toward wiping out the causes that have given a bad impression of Bismarck.

The result of the trial of Chas. Trumbull justifies, it would seem, the action of United States Commissioner Corey in discharging John Trumbull and Ira Hall since Chas. Trumbull was the principal. The Argus says Judge Campbell will insist upon their trial, however, as they were indicted jointly with Chas. Trumbull, although it is thought the acquittal of Chas. Trumbull practically decides the case of John and Ira. The Trumbulls were defended by Gen. Wilson, of Fargo, and John Carland, of this city.

The Herald seconds the motion of the Tribune for the election of E. A. Williams speaker of the house, and says: "If Mr. Williams should be chosen to preside over the deliberations of the house, he will make a competent presiding officer, prompt in his rulings and fearless in the discharge of his duties. He has every qualification necessary to meet the requirements of the office. Southern Dakota will have the president of the council, and North Dakota should be entitled to the speakership."

For the council Maratta's majorities are as follows:

Morton county	82
Barleigh county	108
Kidder county	108
Griggs county (claimed)	300
Total	1,400

Nickeus has majorities as follows:

LaMoure county	82
Dickey county	82
Ransom county	82
Stanley county	82
Barnes county	80
Total	2,304

This will make a majority of 794 for Nickeus.

The editor of the Herald offers the following explanation of his course during the recent campaign: To stick solidly to party and friends, right or wrong, and even when one is convinced that such a course is wrong, is a fault that the world easily condones, and, for the moment, frequently applauds. It is far easier for a soldier to stand the hazard of the fight than to resign upon the eve of battle. It requires a spirit of rare metal to stand for principle against the taunts of "showing the white feather" and "going back upon friends."

"Poor Brave Bear, the dashing raider for many years for Sitting Bull, was hung to day at Yankton. He was to the Sioux what Arabi is to the Egyptians—the bold defender of his people against the encroachment of the whites upon his lands. He was first in war, last in peace, and the first one of his race to be hung by the neck until dead, in Dakota."—Herald.

Poor Brave Bear, distinguished himself by murdering a defenseless family, consisting of a mother and several children, at Pembina, and by the murder of Johnson, who was respected by all who knew him. In both instances the murders were for the purpose of plunder. While on the reservation Brave Bear was a coffee cooler of the most abject sort.

The survey of the Bismarck line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad leaves the main line—the Southern Minnesota—at Forestburg, half way between Huron and Mitchell. It gives a direct line to Chicago, and passes through a most excellent country. The Aberdeen branch of the Hastings & Dakota line, which gives a direct route to St. Paul, will also build a line to Bismarck. The line of the Northwestern, which is being surveyed to Bismarck, comes from Watertown. It is now completed to the center of Clarke county. These three lines of road, which will be completed to Bismarck next year, together with the Bismarck and Fort Buford branch, of the North Pacific, which will also be built, will add wonderfully to the prosperity of Bismarck.

A DAKOTA farm is like no other on the popstool. It produces more wealth, is easier managed, requires less to manage, than a farm in any other country on earth. There are no rocks to clear away, as in the east; no trees to fell, as in the middle states; no ditches to dig and no irrigation to plan, as in some of the western states; no drought to fear, as in the southwest; no floods to dread, as in the rich bottom lands of the lower Mississippi; no levees to build or fertilizers to buy, as in the older agricultural countries, and no past record of failure to hover over and alarm the man who plows and reaps in the great wheat gardens of the Universe. The land that was put in crop eleven years ago is as fertile now as then. Yearly there is no diminution in productive qualities of the unequalled land. The promises of fortune are always kept in this Mecca to the fortune seekers. Had the searcher for marvelous things in the old time, who boldly embarked upon an unknown sea and, having landed on an unknown coast, bravely pushed into the forest to meet the dame who always waits to be overtaken—had these bold searchers penetrated to imperial Dakota, they would have considered their mission accomplished. There is no need to go beneath the surface for the gold, for it lies on top. No great amount of labor is necessary to accumulate great riches in a country where the ground prepared and the seed placed beneath it assures the harvest in due time. Dakota farms are a mine of wealth, never failing to those who possess them.

The Jamestown Alert, in speaking of the election, assumes that Capt. Maratta is more than likely to receive the certificate of election over Mr. Nickeus for the council, and says: "Bismarck and the counties west of the river are still voting, and if they hold out there is no telling how large a democratic majority they may come in with about Christmas." There is nothing in the returns from either Burleigh or Morton county to justify any such a fling as this. Burleigh county gave a majority of 101 for Capt. Raymond, the republican candidate for congress in a total vote of nine hundred and thirteen, and gave its own citizen, Capt. D. W. Maratta, a majority of 163 on the same vote. Morton county gave John B. Raymond a majority of 91, and Capt. Maratta 89, in a total vote of 621, making Capt. Maratta's majority in the two counties 250. Stutsman county gives its own citizen, who happened to be a democratic candidate for the legislature, 379 majority, and Raymond, the republican candidate for delegate to congress, 487 majority, showing a general stampede of republicans in that county for one of their own citizens, a democratic candidate, while the democratic candidate for the council, who resides at Bismarck, is badly cut for their local republican candidate for the same position. Capt. Maratta carried his own county by a handsome majority, as he deserved to do, and as everybody expected he would, but there was nothing in the canvass to justify the charge that anybody at Bismarck proved treacherous, or that the citizens of this county and Morton are still voting. Mr. Williams ran 174 ahead of his party ticket in Burleigh county, gaining votes lost to other candidates as follows: Benson, 8; Jones, 102, and Goodrich, 64. If Stutsman county made a better record for its party candidates, the vote in detail will prove interesting.

In Nebraska they voted on a woman suffrage amendment to the constitution, and in Omaha the women advocates of the measure were out in full force at the polls button-holing voters to cast a ballot for them. The Bee, which doesn't tackle kindly to the women's rights idea, seizes them unmercifully, and particularly Phoebe Cousins, who conducted the Bee characterizes as unmerciful and abusive in the extreme. Several ladies, headed by Miss Cousins and Susan B. Anthony, went from ward to ward addressing the crowd from their carriage. The following from the Bee shows how their remarks were received: "Youthful cat-calls and reminders of squealing in fanks and crooked cradles at home floated out on the air. The juveniles were evidently unaware that, except in the case of one of the ladies, the 'Baby Mine' song was altogether inharmonious. From the first and second wards the four sisters aforesaid came up to the fourth, where, apparently, they had more friends, and there related with unconcealed wrath some imagined insults at the polls they had just visited. Miss Cousins was particularly stormy, and in a few remarks gave vent to expressions that had enough vinegar and gall in them to satisfy all the sisters and the cousins and the aunts in the movements. Some one in the crowd called for Mr. Hitchcock. This overwhelmed Phoebe completely, and she commenced a tirade of abuse on Mr. Hitchcock, such as no male worker in politics of any character would indulge in, especially in the very shadow of the ballot box. We quote the exact language of the distinguished sister: 'Mr. Hitchcock cannot speak here. He is a disgrace to the community. He is a disgrace to American womanhood. He is a disgrace to the mother that bore him.' Hitchcock, who is a strong opponent of woman's suffrage, attempted to reply, but he was so completely whipped by her horses and disappeared around a corner."

LADY JANE GRAY Swisshelm sends some center shots at the mistakes of prohibitionists, and especially their fundamental error that the drunkard is the victim, not the sinner. She correctly holds that the man who voluntarily gets drunk is the principal, and the man who furnishes him the means only an accessory in the crime; and that so long as temperance advocates devote their attention to the masses of the ignorant instead of so long as they demoralize public sentiment and weakening the moral sense of the community. Indignantly rejecting the doctrine that liquor-sellers are the only free agents in the work of intemperance, Mrs. Swisshelm says: "The evil of intemperance cannot be reached until the sin of intemperance and its penalties are placed by human law where God and nature placed them, and this is on the drunkard. When a man gets drunk, God does not punish with headaches and financial ruin the one who gave him the liquor, but drives it all home to the one who drank it. And temperance people must turn around and get on God's side of the contest before they can have any reasonable ground of hope for success in their labors."

VENOR'S programme for November: A good deal of rain and mild weather prevails to the 10th, with but few fine days. 10th to the 15th snow-falls north and south, and moderate weather, except in proximity to 14th and 15th, when there may be lower temperatures; and on the 16th and 17th a "cold wave" is not unlikely to reach north from the northwest. Not much snow anywhere. Between the 18th and 21st a mild time is probable, with snow showers; sleet and rains according to locality, with gales on St. Lawrence river and lower lakes. This will end abruptly, and a cold snap is again probable after the 21st of the month. About 25th and 26th heavy rains, snow in southern and western sections, with rain and snow-falls in northern United States and Canada. The month will close with an intensely "cold dip" and snow-storms through Canada and northern and middle, as well as western United States.

PROBABLY no one on earth except a Winnipeg real estate man could be guilty of a thing like this, which comes by telegraph from that devil's town: A party bought a section of land a long distance from any railroad or settlement in the Northwest, paying therefor $1 per acre. His friends joked him on the purchase, and suggested that he put the land into town lots. He did so, and sold $100,000 worth, without even seeing them himself. The purchasers, who lived in a Canadian city, afterward examined their townsite, and found it under two feet of water, in a swamp. The story is told in this city as a good joke.

BELLING'S Post: Col. Lounsberry, of the Bismarck Tribune, displays a roster of gigantic proportions in his issue of the 8th inst. The Tribune has just reason to be proud of the success of the Citizens' ticket which it warmly and ably advocated in opposition to the infamous ring which has long ruled and nearly ruined Bismarck.

The Fargo Argus is kind enough to say this: Colonel Lounsberry, with his "little Tribune," has a right to be proud of the record he has made in the late fight. The increased demand for Bismarck real estate, evidence the public faith in the result of the Tribune's fearless fight and grand success.

MOOREHEAD'S News: Major Edwards had better come over to Moorhead. We will guarantee him $10,000 yearly if he will move his Argus over to this city and show the people in the swamp across the Red that while he can get along without Fargo, Fargo cannot get along without the major.

JUDGE CUTTS, police justice of Grand Forks, recently went to Maryland to visit his parents. During his absence charges were made in Grand Forks that he had not been honest in his dealings with the city. The judge has returned and says he will explain matters satisfactorily.

The "Jim river" of Dakota is said to be the longest unnavigable river in the world. It is a very crooked stream, constantly doubling itself and crossing and winding along its prairie bed. Its actual length is believed to be not less than 1,000 miles.

The editor of the Valley City Times doesn't seem to be greatly worried by his $117,000 libel suit. It's the pestiferous stranger who comes in to have him go over the exchanges and find his (the stranger's) home paper, that is making life so tough to the editor not worth the living.

Ye gods if I doth amaze me, that a man who can't make a speech—A man of no parts whatever, should go away with an orator and a statesman like me. I am more than ever convinced that Dakota politics are hell.—Judge Brookings.

The lesson of the late election seems to be that the people are their own political bosses.

SOLEMN FACTS.

High Spirited Bird.

[Duluth Bee.]

The BISMARCK DAILY TRIBUNE takes the cake so far as roosters are concerned. It takes up half the first page and is a very high strong fellow.

The War Horse Dreams.

[Alert.]

Kelleher will take a hand in the city election next spring. He is already dreaming of the subject of nights.

OF COURSE.

[Fargo Republican.]

Steele won in the fight for county seat in Kidder county, and of course Dawson charges illegal voting as the cause.

The Same Old John.

[Argus.]

Captain John B. Raymond, who has been elected delegate to congress by over 20,000 majority, is hauling in wheat from his bonanza farm just the same as though he had never heard of the canvass.

He Smiled.

[Fargo Republican.]

Frank J. Mead, of Mandan, was in the city on Friday evening, on his way to St. Paul. He was smiling all over his face at the defeat of the ring here and in Bismarck. Mr. Mead is one of the most prominent men of the Missouri valley.

Makes Some Queer Remarks.

[Mayville Eagle.]

The BISMARCK TRIBUNE is always overflowing with interesting news, but it will occasionally say some odd things. In the last issue we noticed the following items: "The Tribune lies." "The Tribune is a most excellent paper." "The Tribune is a disgrace to Bismarck."

A Bismarck Nabob.

[Argus.]

B. D. Wilcox, one of the most famous real estate boomers of East Mandan, otherwise known as Lounsberryville, spent two or three days of the week in Fargo trying to size up a real estate boom. It is rumored that Wilcox has made $500,000 in this year handling Bismarck dirt, and will soon leave for Paris and Venice to spend the winter.

Next Station to Heaven.

[Stillwater Sun.]

The BISMARCK TRIBUNE talks of the result of the election in Burleigh county, Dakota, in a way to leave the inference that Bismarck will hereafter be next station to Heaven. The Mandan Pioneer should make the most of this.

A Land of Wonders.

[Sioux Falls Argus.]

Many parties from the eastern states who visited Dakota during the summer months are again coming in on every train. They come to see the "changed aspect of the country under the influence of fall weather. Its generally altered appearance strikes them as something marvelous, but nothing strikes their wonder so much as the shortened twilights. During the month of July they were accustomed to sit around outside of the hotels and read the papers after nine o'clock, but now they see the lamps and the electric lights burning after five. The change of season, of course, produces a change in this respect, but in no part of the country is it so noticeable, they say, as in Dakota. They explain the phenomenon by saying that Dakota is in a land of wonders in which people should be prepared to see almost anything, except a failure of crops, a lack of enterprise and other like calamities.

Bismarck's Representative.

[Grand Rapids (Dak.) Journal.]

Hon. E. A. Williams, of Bismarck, who ere this time has the assurance of his election as representative to the territorial legislature from this district, arrived at Grand Rapids on Saturday last and enjoyed the pleasure of a quiet and peaceful Sabbath, away from the wicked and much-to-be-prayed-for city of Bismarck. Mr. Williams is a pioneer in Dakota, although only 32 years of age; he came into the territory in 1871, seeking a location to practice law, but he was admitted to the bar at Freeport, Ill., at the age of twenty. The fall of 1872, after a hard summer's work with the shovel and pick on the grade of the North Pacific railroad in the vicinity of Bismarck, he was elected to the lower house of the legislature and two years later elected a member of the territorial council. Mr. W. has been very successful in the practice of his profession, and the Fourteenth district will have in him an able and intelligent representative. He made many acquaintances while here, who congratulate him on the successful issue of the campaign.

Long a Liar.

A letter to the TRIBUNE dated Dickinson the 11th, and signed by postmaster Auld and Davis Bros., says:

EDITOR TRIBUNE:—In your issue of the 10th appears an item stating that one Long, a buffalo hunter, had reported trouble with Indians at this point. In reply we would say that the statement that the Indians caused any trouble or attempted to help themselves to anything not their own is a pure fabrication, having its rise in the imagination of I. L. Long, or, as he is known in this town, I. L. Leslie. Which is the proper name is best known to himself. Perhaps his fears led him to believe that there was trouble, inasmuch as he left town the night of Wednesday, on which day he tells your reporter the trouble occurred. His imagination or fears may also account for his multiplying the actual number by ten. The facts are simply these. On the day named fifteen or twenty Indians arrived here by rail on their return to Fort Berthold and made no attempt to take anything from either the hotel or restaurants. They are regular visitors of ours, stop here frequently, and so far we have had no reason to regret that they do so.

Please give this denial of "lively times at Dickinson," the same publicity that you gave Mr. Long's, (or Leslie's) statement. To put it all in a few words there is absolutely no truth whatever in the statement that any Indians who have ever stopped here have behaved in any other than a perfectly peaceful and orderly manner.

That Collision.

The accident which delayed the eastern train last Tuesday occurred about fifteen miles east of Fargo, and was one of the most remarkable smashups on record. A freight train going east separated as it was going down grade. Eighteen cars left the engine, and the engineer, unmindful of the fact, stopped his engine at the station. The separated portion of the train continued its course down the grade, and when coming up with the first part it struck it with terrific force, throwing the engine off the track and plunging the cars, one upon the other, in the most promiscuous manner. Word was telegraphed for a wreck engine, and the engineer, as he was approaching the scene of the wreck, came upon it so suddenly around a curve, that before he had time to stop his engine, his train was in the midst of the wreck, enlarging the wreck and ditching more cars. About this time the morning passenger train came along, all on board ignorant of what had happened and of the wreck before them. This engineer, like the other, came thundering on, and because of the curve, which shut out all view, his train plunged into the unshapely mass, demoralizing the engine and the forward platform of the baggage car. The passenger train went luckily avoided the fate of its predecessors, by seeing the danger in time. The damage was heavy, three engines and a number of cars having been badly damaged. A large number of passengers were on board the trains, and say it was the worst wreck they ever saw.

A Matter that Should be Attended To.

Bismarck has no place to bury her dead. It is high time that the cemetery association which was organized three or four years ago accomplished something in the matter of securing burying grounds. Heretofore the Presbyterian church society have offered the yard in the rear of their church edifice as a place of burial, but that small space is now almost entirely occupied, and the members of the church have decided to permit no more burials there. It is of no use to apply to the trustees of the church for permission to bury, because the trustees have nothing whatever to say in the matter, the congregation having taken the matter from their hands, and decided positively to permit no further interments in the yard. The only other place of sepulture is the Catholic cemetery, and that is to be platted next spring and sold off in town lots. Then every bereaved Bismarcker will have to start a private cemetery in his front door yard. The whole thing is a disgrace, and energetic measures should be taken to wipe it out quick. Moreover, the longer a purchase of grounds is deferred, the more expensive they will be. Let's have a cemetery right away.

Northwest Notes.

The board of health of Helena has published a notice warning the citizens of the presence of a case of varioloid in the city, and urging general vaccination.

Morton Kain, formerly of Helena, was shot and killed by a gun trap in the Judith mountains, on October 27th. The gun trap was set for bear, and Kain ran into it while prospecting in the mountains.

Miles City Journal: The Chinamen of Miles City are expert at handling the pasteboards or throwing the ivory. It may be a good deal in luck, but somehow a Chinaman will usually rake in the shekels.

The New North-West is enthusiastic over the advent of the railroad, and closes a long article upon the subject thusly: "We bid the Utah & Northern and all other railroad companies welcome. Life is too short to fool away time on ox teams or stage coaches. Hail to the railroad!"

Helena Independent, Nov. 3: The post-office at Silver City, which has been closed for the past three months on account of small-pox in the house in which the post-office was kept, will be opened for business to day. Nick Gredel has been appointed postmaster, and the postoffice will be at his hotel. The citizens of Silver City and vicinity will doubtless rejoice.

Miles City Journal: Several general knockdowns occurred on Main street last night, which made a heavy stampede among a number of leading business men, not to the scene of action, but the reverse. A game of "stud" was flourishing in a saloon, and several pilgrims caught a glimpse of a small size pop-gun. They were last seen making their way through the doors, leaving their chips on the table; the game went on, the dealer looking as if nothing had happened.

Complaints are made that the magnificent Yellowstone Park is in danger of being destroyed by the vandalism of visitors. Its natural beauties are wantonly defaced by relic hunters. Deer, buffalo, elk, antelope and mountain sheep are slaughtered, and the grazer of the geysers is rapidly being obliterated by the obstruction of huge logs, which are rolled into them, and clog the spotting of the water. Some expedient should be adopted at once to put a stop to these practices.

Bozeman Courier: A short time since, Charles Anconey, Jr., and brother-in-law, George Nelson, while herding cattle towards the head of Elk Creek, between the Gallatin and Madison rivers, discovered two large silver-tip or cinnamon bears, which, for some time past had been preying on Mr. Chas. Anconey's young stock. As it happened, the "boys" had no fire arms except revolvers, and no ammunition except what was contained in the cylinders of their weapons. Nothing daunted, however, they opened fire on the ferocious brutes with their six-shooters, putting spurs to their horses and, retreating as the wounded and enraged animals started toward them, and then reversing the order of things as the bears retreated. By the time the revolvers were emptied, the bears took refuge in a clump of bushes near by, when Anconey suggested to Nelson to go to the cabin after guns, while he would circle around the bushes and endeavor to keep the wounded animals corralled until his return. Nelson soon returned with rifles and ammunition, when the battle was re-opened by the boys with greater assurance, and more deadly effect to the bears. The savage animals were speedily dispatched, and the boys came out of the encounter without a scratch. Montana cow-boys are generally as docile and law-abiding as other young men who pursue an active outdoor life, but bears and other "varmints" had best keep out of sight when they are around.

Corn in Dakota.

It has heretofore been generally supposed that corn could not be successfully grown in North Dakota, on account of the short seasons; but it has this year been demonstrated beyond a doubt that not only can it be successfully grown, but those who attempted it last season were amply repaid for their efforts by securing a good yield of the best quality. Especially has this been true of land planted to corn in the Missouri valley the past season, where it has yielded an average of from forty-five to fifty bushels per acre. Dent corn has fully matured, though it is not to be depended upon in all seasons like the smaller and more hardy varieties. Many farmers in Morton county have raised fifty bushels to the acre on sod the past season. With wheat at present prices our farmers will do well to think carefully during the coming winter as to whether they will sow all wheat or part wheat and part corn the coming season.—Fargo Evening Post.

Fargo's Great Mistake.

[Moorhead Enterprise.]

The failure of the Fargo people to elect Major Edwards to the house is likely to give the leading men of Moorhead the opportunity for which they have waited so long, of getting ahead of their rival across the Red. With Edwards' defeat, is gone forever Fargo's hope of securing the capital at that point. Also, is gone the hope that Fargo's representative will be speaker of the territorial legislature, a position which was secured to the major in case of his election. Without a representative in her interest in the legislature, she cannot only not expect to have the capital located there, but she cannot expect and will not get the ordinary favors that a town like Fargo expects at the hands of a territory like Dakota.

Staging on the Range.

Helena Independent: Staging on the range the other side of Bozeman is not devoid of excitement. A few days ago a cayuse, to which was attached the fruits of a bear hunt, dashed into the six-in-hand, jacked the whole outfit, broke the pole out of the wagon, and dumped the passengers and made the air sulphurous with the maledictions of the old-timers and the prayers of the pilgrims, who thought they had been struck by a section of the day of judgment. Old Joe, the driver, pathetically characterized the episode as a bear hunt.

THE NEWS.

REPORTED TO THE TRIBUNE
BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.How the Marquis of Queensbury Made a Donkey of Himself—Other Advices.

The Casselton Branch.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 14.—The particulars of the sale of the Casselton branch by the North Pacific to the Manitoba company have been received and are as follows. Messrs. Hill, Manvel and Alexander of the St. P., M. & M., and Messrs. Clough and Lamborn of the North Pacific, left St. Paul last Sunday morning at 4 o'clock in special car for Winnipeg. On Monday at Winnipeg, a regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Manitoba Southwestern railroad company, which was to connect with the Casselton branch and give it access to Winnipeg, was held, there being six of the nine members present. Since the last election three of the directors have removed from the territory, and it was thought desirable to fill the vacancies. The following gentlemen were elected to the unexpired term: J. J. Hill, Alex. Manvel and C. C. Smith, all of St. Paul, and officials of the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba.

The board as now constituted puts the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba party in control, who will operate the road hereafter. The Manitoba Southwestern is a stock company, three-quarters being owned by the Oregon & Transcontinental company, which has now been acquired by the Hill party. The Casselton branch was owned by the Casselton branch railroad company, an independent company, the stock of which was owned by the North Pacific. The Hill party acquired this road by transfer of the ownership of the North Pacific in the territory.

As soon as the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba can build a short piece of road, three or four miles long, from the Durbin extension to Casselton, they will operate the road.

A Fight for a Crossing.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 14.—The excitement regarding the crossing of the New York, West Shore & Buffalo and the Syracuse, Chenango & New York railroads, the adjacent property of which both companies claim title, continues. There were about 500 men congregated at the crossing last night, and a general fight is imminent. Five locomotives belonging to both roads are standing at the crossing, while a number of flat cars have been derailed, completely blocking Willow street. Both parties defy each other.

The West Shore company is attempting to secure some property in the Fourth ward, which J. J. Belden, as receiver of the Chenango Valley road, claims that the road obtained when it got its route through the city.

An Arkansas Double Murder.

LITTLE ROCK, Nov. 14.—News was received today of a double tragedy on Red river, a few miles from Texarkana, Saturday night. Chas. Henry, Jr., a merchant at Lost Prairie, had a quarrel with two brothers named Butler, and was pursued, the Butlers following him to a negro cabin, knocking down the door. Henry had a double-barreled shot gun, and killed both brothers as they crossed the threshold. He was wounded in the arm by a ball fired by a man who came with the assailants. The Butlers were picked up dead and buried Sunday in one grave.

The Anti-O'Connor Racket.

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 14.—It is now stated that the demonstration which prevented the ex-priest, O'Connor, from lecturing here Sunday evening was an organized movement emanating from the Jesuit church here. The mayor has instructed the chief of police that O'Connor or anyone else must be protected in the right of free speech if the whole police force is necessary, and that if the chief anticipates danger, he must call upon the mayor for additional help. The chief says he anticipates no further trouble. O'Connor is still here, and says he will lecture.

More Railroad Trouble.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Commissioner Midglen, of the Iowa Tunk Line Association, issued a circular to-day directing lines in the association to bill no more freight to points in Nevada via the Union Pacific road unless prepaid to Council Bluffs, and even then to accept on the stipulation that the responsibility of its forwarding shall cease at Council Bluffs. This action is taken because the Union Pacific refused to make a joint fixed rate to Nevada points. The circular does not affect business through to California.

Barium will Contest.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 14.—E. P. Barium, the late democratic nominee for congress in the Fifth district, states that the evidence of fraudulent republican votes in his district are so strong that he has concluded to make a contest for the seat in congress, provided the official canvass of the votes did not show conclusively that Nelson had an honest plurality. He also called attention to the fact that he had invariably, when interviewed, expressed the opinion that Nelson would get a larger vote than Kindred.

Government Land Decisions.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—In the department of justice to-day Acting Secretary of the Interior Joslin decided that the statutes restrict a contest against a prior timber culture entry to one who seeks to enter under the homestead or timber culture laws. In the absence of an application there is no right of contest.

In a decision rendered to-day the acting secretary of the interior holds that a contest for a land title instituted by a parent cannot be transferred or inherited by a child, even though it shall appear that the contest was instituted for the child's benefit.

Dangerous Counterfeit.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Chief Brooks of the secret service treasury department, has received a sample of a counterfeit Bland silver dollar which is being extensively circulated, especially in the west. The coin is very heavily plated and resists any test until deeply cut. Before the test is applied it has a ring similar to the genuine coin, and is exact weight. The officers of the department consider the counterfeit one of the most dangerous that has yet appeared.

Puddlers' Pups on a Strike.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 14.—Helpers of the puddlers in two rolling mills in Newport have struck for what they say is Pittsburgh wages, and have stopped work, and unless an adjustment is made soon this will stop the mills when the present stock is worked off. Jarrett has been telegraphed for his services as arbitrator. The strike is not against the mill owners, but it is by the helpers against the puddlers, who employ and pay them.

Sensation in a London Theatre.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—During the performance to-night at the Globe theatre of Tennyson's new drama "The Promise of May," the Marquis of Queensbury twice arose and protested against Tennyson's representation of the principles of free thought, which he said was a travesty on the sentiment of free thinkers. His remarks created a sensation, and the marquis left the theatre.

'Twould Make Any Man Desperate.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Henry Kuhn, aged 20, of 18 Humboldt street, Brooklyn, attempted to kiss Barbara Duclein, aged 26, Sunday evening. A companion named Geo. Grover, aged 19, tried to stop him. Kuhn became enraged and struck Grover. They clinched, and Kuhn was thrown heavily, his head striking the curbstone. Kuhn is dying. Grover was arrested.

Naked and Dead.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 14.—The dead bodies of two men, naked, Joseph Hughes and Mark Davis, were found on South Sixth street this morning, they having been shot, Davis in the left side near the heart and in the head, and Hughes in the left eye and in the neck. At the inquest this afternoon it was shown that Hughes and Davis were gambling last night at Cudmoor's.

Two to One It's a Fib.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 15.—Richard Hoffman, of Somerset township, has been a cripple for years, being paralyzed in the lower limbs, so he was compelled to use a wheel chair. On last Thursday he was seized by a burglar, and while engaged in prayer heard a voice saying, "Arise and walk." He obeyed the command, and has been walking ever since.

Tiffany Going Back to Arizona.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Ex-Indian Agent J. C. Tiffany, indicted in Arizona for embezzling moneys and government property aggregating about $15,000, gave bail in $15,000 to appear at the opening of the United States district court at Tucson, Arizona, the first Monday in February to plead to indictments. J. B. Cornell, iron merchant, became his bondsman.

Balloting for U. S. Senator.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 14.—The legislature balloted to-day for United States senator without choice. The vote stood: Short term—senate, Barlow 29, Hill 11; house, Barlow 79, Hill 91. Long term—senate, Governor Colquitt 20, Jackson 12, Anderson 7, Black 5; house, Colquitt 82, Jackson 35, Black 29, Anderson 18, Long street 3.

Striking Cigar Makers.

DAVENPORT, Ia., Nov. 14.—The employees of Eubank's tobacco factory struck to-day because of a reduction of wages paid fifty girls, assistants of the cigar makers. The reduction was from $2 to $1.50 per thousand bunches. The number of men engaged in the strike is 280.

Wrecked Vessel.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The Austrian ship Mineva reported that when going into Falmouth she passed a white boat carrying a red flag and having five men in it, twenty miles east of Beach head. This was nine hours after the Westphalia collision, and is supposed to be the missing boat.

The Great Garfield Fair.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The board of directors of the Garfield monument fair, met this evening and received reports from different committees and state boards, all of which indicated rapid progress in the perfection of final arrangements.

A Fatal Mistake.

BOWMANVILLE, Ont., Nov. 14.—At Salina, near here, last night Wm. Trimble and two daughters, 25 and 18, partook of supposed herb tea. They were all taken sick. Trimble and one daughter died to-day. The other daughter is not expected to recover.

Brighter Outlook for Pensacola.

PENSACOLA, Nov. 14.—This has been a bright, clear day, with a frosty temperature. There are no new cases of yellow fever, and no deaths are reported. General joy prevails at the reasonable assurance that the epidemic is over.

Two Brothers Drowned.

HALIFAX, Nov. 14.—Two brothers named Halan, of East Point, Medway, were drowned from a fishing boat.

Died as the Fool Dieth.

CITY OF MEXICO, Nov. 14.—Doctor Julio Marcias was killed in a duel last night. Arms, revolvers; distance, fifteen paces.

Telegraphic Ticks.

The trial of Arabi Pasha will last probably two months.

Ex-Vice President Wheeler will shortly wed Mrs. Woodruff, of Chicago.

A Madrid dispatch announces the death of Figueras, ex-president of the federal republic. New cases of yellow fever are reported each day in Pensacola. The weather remains unseasonably warm.

A New York dispatch states that ninety sailing vessels and eight steamers were lost during the month of September.

A boiler burst in a mill near Washington, N. Y., Monday, and the engineer, named Fairbanks, had the sight of both eyes destroyed.

Speaker Keifer has received some sarcastic telegrams from the constituents of ex-Secretary Robeson, congratulating him upon the latter's defeat.

A Brainerd dispatch on the election in the Fifth Minnesota district, says: "Despondency and desperation combined prevail here." Brainerd is the home of Kindred.

Sunday night an engine and a combination passenger and baggage car of a train on the Hartford, Eldred & Cuba railroad, went over a trestle forty feet high, near Cuba, New York, and the engineer, James French, was killed.

Louis Olsen, a resident of Minneapolis, started the other day with his wife and three children for the old country, where he was to take charge of emigrants bound for Minnesota. When he arrived in New York he got crazy drunk and shot his wife, who is now lying in the hospital, where she may die, and the little ones are under the care of the society for the prevention of cruelty to children. Olsen is in jail.

Ex-Secretary Blaine, on being interviewed recently on the result of the late elections said he did not see anything in it to cause despondency for the party's future. The defeat, he says, is not so signal as that of 1874, and he believes that the party, with a candidate like Gen. Harrison, of Indiana, on whom all factions can unite, will be successful. He thinks if Gen. Butler wins again in '88, he will be a very strong candidate for the democratic presidential nomination.

Another Big Purchase.

Alex. McKenzie Tuesday purchased an undivided one-half interest in Col. Lounsbury's farm, one mile east of the Sheridan House, and in the course of the winter it will be laid out as an addition to Bismarck. The greater portion of the half section is a beautiful plateau overlooking the city, the river and the railroad for many miles, and will make very desirable property indeed. It is well adapted to residence property, and is the best of all land in the country for park purposes. It will probably be put into 50-foot lots and will be sold at popular prices. The Milwaukee & St. Paul and Northwestern roads will connect with the North Pacific about half a mile east of the Sheridan House, and the shops of these companies will be built in that vicinity, adding immensely to the value of the park addition to Bismarck. Mr. McKenzie has purchased $25,000 worth of real estate in and about Bismarck during the past ten days, and most of it could be sold to-morrow at an advance of one hundred per cent. over cost. And still prices, excepting in three or four of the central business blocks, are wonderfully low in comparison with property at Fargo and Jamestown, or even residence property in Mandan.

The Drumlummon Mine.

As announced in the TRIBUNE's telegraphic columns yesterday morning the celebrated Drumlummon gold and silver mine, near Helena, has been sold to English capitalists for $1,500,000. The mine was owned principally by Tom Cruise, a native of Ireland, who has been prospecting in the Montana mining region for twenty-seven years without noteworthy success until three years ago, when he struck the Drumlummon, which is the name of his native village in Ireland. The mine is said to have been paying $3,000 every day for the last three years, and Cruise recently refused an offer of $1,250,000 for it.

Land of the Lemon and Orange.

[Miller Press]. The Indian summer time has come, the finest of the year; we are enjoying the most delightful weather known in our fair land of the Dakotas. Our balmy Indian summer with its light haze equals the skies of Italy or sunny France. If Hand county is not the banana belt, it can boast of purer air and more fertile lands than that much vaunted country. We should not be surprised to see oranges and lemons successfully cultivated in this garden of Eden.

Boom! Boom! Boom Without Ceasing!

Let every citizen of Bismarck and Burleigh county put his shoulder to the wheel and shove the interests of the Missouri slope to the front. Let every citizen of the slope feel that his first duty is to advertise the good points of this favored region to the world. Let all assist the newspapers in bringing to the notice of outsiders our commercial, agricultural and social advantages.

A Miles City Peril.

Miles City Press: A couple of well fattened hogs are prowling about town, invading private premises, threatening with savage ferocity young children who chance to be out of doors unattended, and running great risk individually of being prematurely slaughtered by an accidental bullet.

Partello Returns.

Billings Post: Lieut. Partello, wife and little daughter returned to Fort Keogh last Sunday. The gallant lieutenant has been winning golden opinions and a gold medal as the crack shot at the military competition at Leavenworth, Kansas.

A THUNDERING BOOM.

THAT'S WHAT BURLEIGH WILL HAVE NEXT SPRING.

Late Transactions in Burleigh County Lands—Van Etten Sells For $26,000—Other Sales in County And City.

A Glorious Prospect.

The prospects now are that the biggest boom ever known in North Dakota, the home of big booms and prosperity, will be witnessed right here in Burleigh county. Every day eastern parties are coming into Bismarck and "catching on" to Burleigh county farms, ranging in dimensions from a quarter section to a section of 640 acres, while in some instances two sections or more are taken. The most encouraging feature of the boom is that these men are not mere speculators, but men of good solid sense, and experienced farmers, who propose to bring their families and locate to stay, and become permanent citizens and boomers of Burleigh county. They are men whose experience in the educated methods of eastern farming will be applied to the cultivation of Burleigh county soil, thereby bringing the best results, and hastening the day of settlement and permanent prosperity of the county. Moreover, the TRIBUNE is informed by those who deal with these new comers that they are generally men of first-rate social attainments and men who will be likely to entertain right ideas in political matters—men it is to be presumed who will demand honesty in the county government, and good character as an indispensable qualification of county officers.

THE VAN ETTEN SALE.

Last Friday Thomas Van Etten sold his farm of 160 acres, adjoining the city on the east, to Geo. P. Flannery, John K. Wetherby, Alex. McKenzie, Frank J. Call and James W. Raymond for $26,000 cash. It will be immediately platted and put on the market as an addition to the city and will become the most popular portion of Bismarck. This is the largest real estate transaction that has occurred in the county, excepting the Clark Farm transfer, and is the beginning of great things for Bismarck. From this time on, and the TRIBUNE wishes the prediction marked, Bismarck will grow a few towns in the west have ground. It will be a great school center. The public schools will take rank with the very best, colleges will be built, manufacturing establishments will locate here and the railroad company will build shops and extensive round houses and other lines of road will follow their example. Dakota territory will be divided this winter and the capital of North Dakota may and should be located at Bismarck. If not the capital some of the public buildings. Congress can and will appropriate money for a custom house and postoffice building.

It is almost impossible to comprehend the advantages that can and will result to the city from taking a course that gives confidence and stimulates hope.

THE ILLINOIS SETTLEMENT.

The Illinois settlement promises to loom up immensely next spring. This settlement is located in range 77, townships 138 and 139, a few miles southeast of Clarke, and in the immediate vicinity of Marshallfield. Mr. H. C. Sinclair, a solid man of Cass county, Ill., has just completed a fine residence in this settlement, and has gone back to Illinois with the intention of returning in the spring with his family. Mr. Sinclair is spoken of by those who have met him here in Bismarck as a man of first-rate business ability and an educated farmer; one of a man likely to have some influence in the business and political affairs of the county. He is the kind of a man Burleigh county likes to welcome. This gentleman will break 500 acres of land next spring. Other members of the colony are Messrs Chas. Crum, Jeff Crum, Crum, Thompson, Rawlins, J. F. Crum, Mussey, Scoville, Anderson, and there are a dozen others whose names the TRIBUNE has not yet been able to learn. Each of these men own a quarter section to two sections, and they are coming in the spring with machinery, and prepared to break from 100 to 500 acres each. One of the men from the colony estimates that it will take twenty-two cars to transport the stock, agricultural machinery and household goods of seven of these families from Illinois. Mr. J. F. Crum, of this colony, has rented the farm of Ed. Sloan, eight miles north of Bismarck, known as the Mount Pleasant farm. Mr. Sloan accepted a rent of $4 an acre and the next day was offered $4.50. And by the way the TRIBUNE would suggest to parties intending to take up land, that it is a good plan to rent a piece of cultivated land to work while breaking their own new acres.

The wonderful vitality and productive-ness of Burleigh county dirt is well illustrated by recent experience of Mr. Hatch. Mr. Hatch planted in a quarter section of the Mount Pleasant farm four pounds of white Australian oats. From this Mr. Hatch harvested 219 pounds of oats.

Mr. Thos. Foster, an Illinois farmer, bought a half section of land three miles southeast of Bismarck, paying therefor $10 per acre—ninety acres being already broken. This year's crop pays for the land and leaves Mr. Foster a clear profit of $73 per acre besides.

Last week McKenzie & Willcox sold two sections of railroad land to a Mr. Johnson of Wisconsin.

H. P. Bague and other parties last week sold to Mr. Coffey, of Richmond, Ind., 100 acres just south of town on the bottom, for $4,800. Mr. Coffey may congratulate himself on getting so good a bargain.

IN THE CITY.

In the city also the boom is beginning to be felt. Prices of lots are stiffening up and real estate dealers report a headful activity. Several important transfers are on the point of consummation, of which the TRIBUNE has knowledge, but of which it is not at present at liberty to speak. Dr. Bussey, who recently came to Bismarck from Maine, has bought the "O'Brien corner," corner Fourth and Meigs streets, from Mathew O'Brien, for $3,250. It is understood that the doctor will build with brick in the spring.

Three months ago Mr. C. B. LaShells, of the postoffice news depot, bought a lot in the northeast part of town for $350, and shortly after sold it to Mayor Raymond for $450, thereby clearing $100—a handsome profit. For the same lot Mr. Raymond was offered last week $300, which offer he declined.

J. H. Richards last week purchased two lots on the railroad addition to Bismarck, of A. Cressey for $1,000. They cost $170 in July last.

All Sorts.

Many people think Ananias was an amateur fisherman.

Hypocrisy is shaking hands with your neighbor, and then, when his back is turned kicking his dog in the ribs.

A negro congregation at Austin, Texas, thought their pastor had their hands in mind when he frequently spoke of "the powers of darkness," and requested him to stop such talk or resign.

Detroit Free Press: The movement in the east to abolish the vest has petered out. When a man takes off his coat at a Sunday school picnic to ladle out the ice cream he wants something between the public and the knots in his suspenders.

A Japanese young woman has graduated from Vassar college. It is to be hoped that she can now paint intel ligibly, so that what the artist intends for a cow in the foreground of a landscape, will not be taken for a grand piano on the roof of a house.

Mrs. McCoble rebuked her colored cook, Matilda Snowball, in the following words: "When I hired you, you said you hadn't any male friends, and now I find a man in the kitchen half the time." "Lor' bress your soul, he ain't no male friend o' mine." "Who is he, then?" "He an' only my husband!"

Send each one of 'em a staving hungry creature a barrel of sugar, a barrel of salt, a barrel of pepper—oh, hell, that's too much pepper. Amen."

A Miner's Ride to Death.

[Denver Republican.]

At the Running lode, in Gilpin county, Col., yesterday, John Schuffler pushed out one of the ore cars without orders from the boss, and shoved it along until the incline was reached, where he did not stop to attach the rope and signal the engineer that all was ready. As a rule, three men had been going out with the car, and he was doubtless under the impression that this imperative duty had been performed by someone else. But the lone servant of the mine was with the car. When the incline was reached and the head of the car was just ready to start on its frightful run, he jumped on the top of the ore and started on the ride to death. The journey was short. The unfortunate man had hardly time to realize the terrible mistake he had made. There was no escape. To jump from the car was certain death. He rode on. Like a flash the car went on its way. The bottom was reached, and poor John Schuffler went through the dump like a bullet. The car went on over and landed twenty feet away. Fellow-laborers rushed to the bottom of the dump. They bent over him. They called him by name. But it was no use. He was dead. Life was gone before they reached him. Every bone in his body was probably broken.

Congratulations From Mandan.

A leading citizen of Mandan writes the editor of the Tribune as follows: "Accept my sincerest congratulations on the result of your election. From the 7th of November, 1882, a new era opens for Bismarck and Burleigh county Mandan and Morton county joins you by showing a clean (political) bill of health. Hitherto there has been enmity and bitterness between the two sides of the Missouri. Let us hope that hereafter it will only be a fair and manly emulation without ill feeling or malice. Every good citizen of Morton county rejoices in your success, and the pleasure of our own success is doubled by the knowledge of yours. From this time on ticklers to the rear—honorable business men to the front at the Missouri crossing. You can truthfully claim that you have been largely instrumental in bringing about this consummation. Henceforth rank me not only your personal friend, but the friend of Bismarck, also, and all her material and social interests."

Thanks From the Reading Room.

The ladies of the reading room regretting that in the excitement of entertaining their guests on Thursday night, that some kind friends who had so generously contributed to the success of the New England dinner, should have been overlooked in the acknowledgements given, would also extend their hearty thanks to W. D. Smith for the use of tables and to John Whalen and McLean & Macnider for a generous supply of dishes and tableware.

From St. Paul to Chicago, $5.

The following telegram received by the TRIBUNE at an early hour last Saturday from General Passenger Agent Carpenter, of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, indicates a lively fight between that road and the Chicago & Northwestern:

Mr. WATKINS, Wis., Nov. 10.—Editor TRIBUNE: Commencing to-morrow morning, Nov. 11th, first-class fare via Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway from Minneapolis and St. Paul to Chicago will be $5.

Real Estate Boomlets.

John A. Rea yesterday purchased from Dr. Potter two houses and lots on Third street.

MILES CITY MATTERS.

Echoes From the Loud Little Metropolis of the Yellowstone.

Beautiful Indian summer weather. The printers have organized a typographical union.

Skating is now indulged in by the adventuresome small boy.

Dan Lavelle got into Miles two days too late to vote. He was astonished when he found what time of the year it was.

The friends of Major Baird, postmaster at Keogh, are regretting his approaching departure for his new station in St. Paul.

Phil Brady, an old time Bismarcker, who ran for sheriff—a little—at Miles City, was beaten in the city by exactly 701 votes.

On the 1st of December mails will be carried regularly by rail from Miles City to Billings, and in the immediate future the service will be extended to Bozeman.

The Journal is a spicy paper. It is crowded to bursting with spunk and self assertion. And since the Journal began to talk every day instead of but once a week the Press has improved in tone 100 per cent.

The dignified canvassers of the Miles City vote paused in their proceedings to take in a dispute which arose between two dogs which had found their way into the room where the voice of the people was being sorted out and sized up.

Large adult audiences gather to witness small boys fight in the ring. This popular Miles City entertainment is euphonicly styled by the local papers "Kid Sparring Exhibitions." The day of better things is coming for Miles as it has and will to other border towns. Frontism must go.

The Press says several hundred Indians are organizing up the Tongue river for a grand hunting expedition, and the ranchmen in that region are preparing to protect their stock and other interests, which are usually raided upon, when the innocent and oppressed red man turns himself loose over the country.

The Dakota Block.

Saturday evening Messrs. Thompson, Porter and Goff who own the three main street lots on the corner of Second street, held a consultation and it was agreed that the largest block in the city should adorn that corner next spring. The building will be three stories high, seventy-five foot front and eighty-five feet deep, with cellar under each store. Architect Wirth has sent to his brother St. Paul, for estimates and it was decided to purchase all the iron, stone and cornice needed this winter, so that work on the block can begin early in the spring and the building be completed before July 1st. The contract for the building will be let as soon as the plans arrive. "Dakota Block" was decided upon as an appropriate name, and the building will be first-class throughout.

THE NEWS.

WIRED TO BISMARCK FROM THE OUTSIDE WORLD.

Ingersoll on the Elections—St. John Defeated in Kansas—Gen. Sherman Makes a Suggestion to Bob-Lincoln.

What Col. Bob-Lincoln Thinks About It.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 10.—Col. Robert Ingersoll, who lectured here to-night, was interviewed this afternoon as to his views on the political situation. As to what caused the political reaction he said: "First, extravagant appropriations; second, refusal to reduce taxation. At least $75,000,000 should have been taken from the burden borne by the people, and $20,000,000 of this should have been taken off sugar and the entire tax from tobacco. The republican party should have taken such steps that all internal taxes would, within one year from now, be abolished. The people are tired of paying war taxes in time of peace. They want collectors and treasury agents and gangsters and all sorts of detectives and spies discharged. The republicans should not have postponed tariff reform. The tariff commission was a mistake. The people saw it was only an affidavit for continuing use of useless delay and that the republican party was not going to act. The prominent feature of the great struggle has been the fight for office. We have too many politicians and too many statesmen. The fight against Cornell was unfortunate. Pennsylvania was tired of Cameron rule, and everywhere there seems to have been a feeling of disgust. As to the effect upon the presidential contest in 1884 it looks to me now that General Sherman will be the next president. The republicans will be compelled to take up such men as General Sherman, and Sherman is the only such man I know. Statists, half-breeds, reformers of the civil service and gentlemen can all unite on General Sherman, a soldier and a statesman."

Gen. Sherman's Idea.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Gen. Sherman has submitted to the secretary of war a special report upon the subject of military posts and forts, in which he says: "The time is now ripe for a radical change in the whole system of piecemeal work in quarantining the troops of the United States. For a hundred years we have been sweeping across the continent with skirmish lines, building a post here and another there, to be abandoned next year for another line, and so on, and so on. We are across and have railroads everywhere so that the whole problem is changed, and I advise the honorable secretary of war to go to congress with a plan that will approximate to permanence, instead of, as heretofore, meeting specific temporary wants by a special appropriation, often in the interests of parties, but the enlargement and improvement of military posts." Gen. Sherman recommends that the secretary of war ask congress for a million dollars per year for five years, to be expended by him at the discretion of officers of his master's department. By that process, he thinks he will have abundance of good quarters for the whole army for the next fifty years.

The Election in Utah.

SALT LAKE, Nov. 10.—The latest returns indicate about 5,000 Gentile votes and 20,000 Mormon. At a meeting of the high priests, Hood, attorney-in-late conference with President Taylor, instructed them that the priests and bishops and their counselors were not entitled to hold their positions unless they qualify by becoming polygamists. Of such officers who are monogamists one has since resigned rather than take another wife, and his resignation was accepted; the others are in a quandary as to what to do about it, but they will have to marry more women or step down and out. One has been appointed president of the Seventies on the condition that he take a new wife. One new made apostle, McCoy, has complied with the condition of holding his office; this is but the logic of the position taken by the church. It must stand by its religious law or no law. It shows that until the government proves itself stronger than the Mormon church in Utah, polygamy will be suppressed, but it will stand in its growth and expansion. There is no doubt about the truth of this whether it is denied or not.

Miss Bond Recovering.

DECATUR, Ill., Nov. 10.—John C. Montgomery, one of the alleged principals in the Emma Bond affair, spent a portion of to-day in Decatur. He reports that Miss Bond is rapidly recovering from her injuries, and is up and around again. There is now no possibility of a relapse. She is gaining strength daily. The chief object of Mr. Montgomery's visit to Decatur was to obtain a transcript of the testimony of one of the witnesses at the preliminary examination, in possession of the stenographer here. The Christian county grand jury will convene at Taylorville on Monday, Nov. 20. The friends of Montgomery, Clemens, and Pettis say they do not believe the grand jury will bring an indictment against the parties named. They also assert that if the parties named are put on trial no jury will convict them.

Gladstone Comes Out for Home Rule.

DUBLIN, Nov. 10.—The Freeman's Journal says: "Premier Gladstone has never before yesterday declared so distinctly and clearly his opinion of the necessity of home rule, or the extent to which it should be conceded. It is impossible to exaggerate the significance of his utterance. Gladstone would not dare use the words he did unless there was some real meaning behind them. The proposition that England will recognize home rule was instinctively advanced and brought more clearly into the domain of practical politics by Gladstone in his speech." The Irish Times commenting on the same point, says editorially: "Gladstone made a remarkable and emphatic new bid for the Irish vote."

Elected Under Disadvantages.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 10.—Gen. James R. Chalmers, independent democratic candidate for congress in the Second Mississippi district, opposing Van H. Manning, democratic nominee, is in the city. In an interview he asserts that no ill-will was practiced in Talladega county, where the election was prevented from being held under the pretense of fear of small pox, which deprived him of 500 votes, and one precinct in Desoto county, in which the judges refused to hold an election, lost to him 200 votes. Notwithstanding all these, he claims his election on the 18 turns that have been made, by 1,070 majority.

Two Brothers Hanged.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 10.—Samuel Hodge and brother, Milton Hodge, were hanged here to-day for the murder of James McGarrland at Black Oak Ridge, near this city, on the 5th of September last. The execution took place in an open field half a mile from the court house, in a natural amphitheatre. There was no trap on the scaffold, which consisted simply of two upright posts, placed in the ground, with a cross-beam from which ropes were suspended. A wagon with the two prisoners drove under the beam at half-past one. The ropes were adjusted and the wagon was driven away, and the men were left dangling. They were choked to death in about ten minutes. Both the condemned men chose this method of their death.

St. John Beaten in Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 11.—Gen. St. John is defeated by a majority of probably 8000. The rest of the republican state ticket is elected. One congressman is in doubt, with chances favorable to the republican candidate. The legislature is republican. While the prohibition question was undoubtedly one great cause of St. John's defeat, the strategy of his opponents in managing the campaign was remarkable for shrewdness. In anti-prohibition communities almost the only fight against him was as a temperance fanatic. In prohibition communities the anti-third term and anti-boss bludgeon was used, and both seem to have done good execution. The influence of St. John's political success over other leading republican politicians was also a feature, and possibly a dissatisfaction with congressional legislation. There was a sort of sympathy, so to speak, in the revolt in the republican ranks of Pennsylvania and New York.

Dakota Leads On New Railroads.

OMAHA, Nov. 10.—The Railway Age states that the railway construction during October in the United States aggregated 1,088 miles of main track on seventy-one different lines in thirty states, making in ten months of the present year 9,143 miles on two hundred and ninety-three lines in forty-three states and territories, and estimates the total construction for the year at between 11,000 and 12,000 miles, which far exceeds that of any previous year. Dakota leads in construction during the past month with one hundred and thirty-one miles. Texas comes next with sixty-six.

Heavy Board Bill.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The people of Elberon hotel to-day presented to the Garfield board of audit the bill of expenses incurred for board by the party accompanying the president at Long Branch. Their board is fixed at $1 per day each. Among the persons specified as having been accommodated there are Mrs. Garfield and daughter, Dr. Boynton, Col. Rockwell, wife, son and daughter, J. Stanley Brown, Warren Young, Col. Corbin, the surgeons and experts, charge of $120 is in debt for servants' board.

Socialist Row in Paris.

LYONS, Nov. 10.—The Socialists had a meeting last night at which Madame Paul Minch presided. Reporters of the day press who had front seats, and were intending to furnish full reports, were expelled by members, and the police attempting to interfere to prevent trouble, were pelted with mud and hurled about amid cries of "long live social revolution." After dark speeches ended the meeting broke up in great disorder.

Junketing Statesmen.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 10.—The steamer Guiding Star, chartered for the use of the congressional committee on improvement of the Mississippi river, was here to-day. The only member of the committee on board were the Hon. John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky, and the Hon. Ben Butler. The remainder of the committee will be met at Cairo. Carlisle stated to a reporter of the press here that he would be a candidate for speaker of the house in the XLVIII congress.

Way Down in Egypt.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—A dispatch to the Times from Cairo says the Egyptian authorities have arrested a servant who was sent by some one of the rebel prisoners to the English consul who is acting for Arabi and his following. Sir Edward Malet, British consul general at Cairo, thereupon demanded he be released. Arabi in prison is a greater curse to the people of this country than Arabi free. The colossal blunder of this trial of Arabi is universally admitted.

A Terrible Fire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Fire in five story building on Pearl street, extending through to Chit street, caused a loss of $50,000. The fire was caused through an explosion in the paint store it is supposed by a spark from the electric wire coming in contact with a quantity of varnish. The dead body of Fred E. Doubleday was found in the store. Later another man, unknown, was found terribly burned about the leg. He was probably an employee.

A Scheme All Figured Out.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The Economist, commenting on the result of the state election in the United States, considers that the returns of the democrats to power cannot fail to be followed by large results, one of which will be an effort to induce Canadians to enter the Union, and that many circumstances would tend, if Canada consented to enter the Union, to make the Canadians democratic rather than republican.

Political Honors in Colorado.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 10.—A private telegram from Denver, received here to-day by a prominent republican, states that the Colorado legislature is republican, and that Jerome B. Chaffee, Judge Brown, Lieut. Gov. Tabor, Gen. Powell and Gov. Hicken were all candidates for the United States senate to succeed Chittcott, but that Gov. Fitts's chances for election to-day are far beyond any of those named.

The "Injun" Commissioners.

YANKTON, D. T., Nov. 10.—The Sioux commissioners reached here last night, and leave for Standing Rock agency Monday. They have closed an agreement for the cession of a portion of the Sioux reservation with the Santee, Pine Ridge and Rosebud Sioux. Everything is progressing favorably, and the commissioners are satisfied with their work so far.

Sensational Shooting.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 10.—The Times-Democrat's Dallas, Tex., special says: At Henrietta last night C. M. Burger, a defeated candidate for county judge, shot and killed R. M. Dole, a young lawyer, who had spoken ill of him during the campaign. Three shots were fired. The tragedy produced a sensation.

Georgia Crime and Calamity.

MACON, Ga., Nov. 10.—To-day the iron bridge on the Georgia railway, over Oconee river at Athens, fell, killing one workman and seriously wounding six. Stephen McKevett, of the Pullman company, was murdered Monday. A negro has been arrested on suspicion.

A Boy Tragedy.

DETROIT, Nov. 10.—A lad named Will Earl was found dead this morning in a dove coop back of a neighbor's house, with a pistol ball in his brain. He went to a variety theater last night with other boys, which was the last seen of him. His companions are missing this morning, and murder is suspected.

Clamped on to a Newspaper.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 10.—C. E. Yost and Fred Nichols have purchased nearly all the stock of the Omaha Republican.

Deep Dyed Villain.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 10.—Last night two masked men set fire to the stables of Mr. Brandenburg near Erin, Ga. While Brandenburg was at the fire, the men entered the house and shot at Mrs. Brandenburg and niece, and seized a trunk containing $1,000 in money and $5,000 in government bonds.

Blaine Commits Himself.

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—Ex-Secretary Blaine said to a friend to-day: "I wish it distinctly understood that I'm not a candidate for the presidency or any other political office, and nothing could induce me to become such."

Corkhill's Skepticism.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—District Attorney Corkhill says he does not believe that Capt. Howgate is concealed in New Orleans, nor does he believe he will surrender himself when his case is called for trial.

A London Sensation.

Military Notes.

Only three companies are now stationed at Lincoln.

Several companies of the Fifteenth will likely be ordered to this department.

Lieut. Van Orsdale remains at Stevenson to turn over the commissaries to Lieut. Kerr, of the Seventeenth.

Dr. Crompton, for the past three years medical officer at Buford, has been ordered to New York on duty.

Dr. Turner, of Fort Stevenson, came down as far as Bismarck with the two companies of the Seventh. He returns to his post.

The detachment at Little Missouri is to be abandoned as soon as the detachment now there shall have finished shipping the goods to Lincoln.

Four companies of the Seventh infantry went east yesterday morning. They were Company I, Capt. Barn in command, and company G, Lieut. Burnett in command, from Fort Stevenson; company F, Capt. Williams in command, from Little Missouri. Dr. Wenick, of Fort Lincoln, accompanies the Seventh to Fort Laramie, after which he will return to his post. One company of the Seventh, company B, remains in this department for the present. It is stationed at Fort Lincoln. As Capt. Kirkland, of this company, is absent on leave, and First Lieutenant Booth is acting signal officer at Bismarck, the company is under the command of Second Lieutenant Greene.

Another Big Deal.

For some days Messrs. A. C. and Richard Mellen, of Pittsburg, Pa., have been in the city making sundry investments in farm lands. Yesterday they turned their attention to Bismarck property, and the latter purchased one-half of the unsold lots in the McKenzie addition, paying therefor $15,000 cash. This is considerable money, but the property is well worth it, and Mr. Mellen will not need to hold his lots longer than June next to double his money. The Mellen brothers are bright and shrewd young business men, and the sons of a very wealthy Pittsburg banker. They decided to make investments in the northwest, and have chosen Bismarck as the city having the most promising future. These gentlemen will be followed by friends of like business tact, and as everybody knows that a considerable number of the solid men who have made investments in this section are from Pittsburg, the TRIBUNE has but one word to say in this connection. There is plenty of ground in Burleigh county and the opportunity is now offered to make every person in the smoky city of Pittsburg a rich man.

The Book Murder Case.

The Book murder case came up Friday in the United States court at Fargo, Judge Hudson presiding. The defendant John and Charles Trumbull, pleaded not guilty, and their counsel asked a separate trial for each. This was granted, and the case of Charles Trumbull called. The remainder of the forenoon was spent in securing a jury, and the box was finally filled by the selection of the following: D. B. Shotwell, S. B. Bingham, E. R. Gr. en, B. Cloutier, C. R. Stout, Henry Krogh, J. D. Miller, William Calley, Charles E. Wilson, John McDonough, William Fenton, John D. Carroll. During the afternoon and evening Amelia Eger, Peter Book, a brother of the dead man, Lena Eger, J. M. Ayers, Louis Eger, Dr. Henry W. Coe, Major T. J. Mitchell and O. H. Lewis were examined. Judge Campbell appears for the prosecution; General Wilson of Fargo, and Attorney Carland, of this city for the defense. The Argus says much interest is manifested in the case.

Judge Bowen remained in the city yesterday with his plat of the new town of Livingston. The fact of business lots being put in the market at the extremely low price of $1,000, with a further requirement of a two-story building being built on each lot within a year, precluded any very great enthusiasm that there might have otherwise been over the new town in this city. However, several "caught on," and Mr. Bowen is expected to select six, Alex. McKenzie a couple, W. F. Kenney two, J. W. Raymond a couple, and several others whose names were not learned, also invested.

A gentleman in this city who was associated in business in Billings with McArthur, the man who shot and killed James D. Russell, the other day, says that McArthur is a man of very bad disposition, and is addicted to immoderate whisky-drinking. When this gentleman and McArthur closed up their partnership affairs, McArthur agreed to assume all indebtedness. Among other bills against the firm was held by Russell, who was a wholesale liquor dealer. The murder was the result of hard feeling growing out of the settlement of this bill. The gentleman referred to predicted, before he left Billings, that McArthur would kill somebody, or be killed himself within a month. His opinion has been fully verified.

Siox City Journal: Siox City is something of a boasting point yet. There will winter in this city the Nellie Peck, Meade and Terry of the Peck line, the Helena of the Benton line, the Tompkins of the Kountz line, the Behan, independently the Missouri, government survey steamer; the Lincoln and President, transfer boats; the Bennett, ferryboat; the Amariyllis and Woodpecker, government improvement steamers, and a new boat yet unchristened, which Capt. Corlie has undertaken to build for Grant Marsh. Some of the boats are owned by the city, and the others by private parties.

It will be remembered that Mr. A. C. Logan, formerly of Bismarck, and brother of Austin Logan of this city, recently abandoned school teaching and went into the newspaper business. Like all newspaper men he got himself disliked by some one, and the following from the Miles City Press will explain the matter: "The three 'B's' gang, headed by Miller (that is to be) Chinichik without any provocation whatever, accosted A. C. Logan, city editor of the Press, at the Cosmopolitan theatre, last evening, without any warning whatever, except by saying, 'You - a - b - , why did you not come last night?' accompanying it with three heavy blows. The crowd rallied about Logan. Only arrested Chinichik on the spot, and the exasperated friends of Logan's would have ornamented a lamp post with the assassin, if better counsel had not been pressed. Chinichik, a badly beaten Logan's pardon and gave bonds of $1,000 to keep the peace, or he would to-day be looking through the bars of the county jail."

Views of a New Settler.

Mr. J. A. Bergum, formerly of Cass county, but now a farmer near Washburn, writes as follows:

Arriving in Bismarck, I admit I was disappointed at first. I expected to find the land and Bismarck in an advanced state of cultivation, but instead I found the state of it raw, bluff prairie, dotted here and there by small farms of from forty to 320 acres. But I was determined to see the Washburn I had heard so much talk about; so, grasping the first opportunity, I started for that point. After leaving the city behind me, I found the land generally better, and saw some very fine farms. Upon one of the latter I counted over forty stacks of grain still awaiting the threshing. Going further northwest, I found the land much the same, until I came within ten or twelve miles of Washburn. Here I found the country more open and the land lying in better shape for farming purposes. Arriving in Washburn I was much pleased with the view of the surrounding country. After looking over the land north and west of Washburn, I am satisfied it is one of the richest agricultural districts west of the Red river, and ahead of anything in North Dakota for stock raising and general diversified farming. Every one knows it is hard to find a country where the soil and climate are suitable for raising both wheat and corn, and at the same time have plenty of coal, timber and shelter for stock. In Missouri, Iowa, southern Minnesota and southern Dakota, wheat is, as a rule, an unprofitable crop. The farmer only sows it to change his land and expects enough to pay the expenses of harvesting, while on the other hand northern Minnesota and the Red river valley are suitable for the raising of wheat and oats to the exclusion of everything else, but as has been demonstrated this year the Missouri slope cannot be excelled for wheat, oats and barley, and if any one doubts my ability to raise corn, tobacco, potatoes, beans and turnips, in fact all kinds of roots and vegetables on sod, let him come to Washburn and investigate. We can prove all here, and will be prepared to show the investigator that we have not told the half of it. As for Washburn, I predict a bright future. It has a splendid location, surrounded by the best farming land in the northwest - land that has been bought of the government by settlers who are here waiting for the railroad, while in other parts of the territory the railroad has been built first, in order to settle the country.

"HOW TWAS DONE."

An Admirable Little Word Which Demonstrates Very Much Most Interesting Information Just Now Greatly Sought After.

Maj. Pangborn, the well known compiler of the B. and O. Red Book, which has become the standard political text book of the country, is now engaged with a large force of assistants in preparing a special edition of the Red Book, which promises to be a unique thing in political literature. It is to be issued under the taking title of "How 'Twas Done: The Political Revolution of 1892."

Within the most artistically engraved covers by the American Bank Note company will be embraced the official results of the election just held, and arranged so perfectly and intelligently that the veriest amateur in such statistics cannot fail to comprehend them. The figures will be given on state ticket and on congressional ticket in separate tables, the former by counties and the latter by counties and districts. In both tables comparisons will be made with the vote at the last preceding election in each state, the returns of which will be given in full in order that the understanding of the situation may be complete. In states where the congressional tickets have been changed since 1890, the districts will be shown as now constituted, thus demonstrating what the result would have been two years ago had the same counties composed the districts then as now. Independent, prohibition and greenback figures will be given in addition to the regular republican and democrat, and in each county the vote of each party will be shown with minorities, gains and losses, both years, together with total vote of county, congressional district and state. Statistical tables will also be included in the book, showing upon similar full and comprehensive scale the vote for president in 1876 and in 1880.

In no publication of like character are such clear and exhaustive tabular statements attempted as in the B. & O. Red Book, and the forthcoming special edition will eclipse any previous edition in extent and interesting character of information furnished. Included within the remarks accompanying the returns will be the details of the changes in congress at districts, the congressmen elect, and the unsuccessful candidates in each state, as well as the members of the next congress complete, and the changes in that body as compared to the last congress. Much other data will be given, and in the way of a thorough understanding of exactly "How 'Twas Done," it would be difficult to imagine a more interesting and reliable source of explanation than will be this new edition of the B. & O. Red Book. Like its predecessor, it will be sent without any cost whatever to all who make application for it to C. K. Lord, General Passenger Agent B. & O. R. E., Baltimore, Md.

The B. & O. Red Book is by heavy odds the handsomest political work from a typographical standpoint issued in the United States, being always printed with exquisite taste on fine paper and bound in the best manner. It certainly is worth the little trouble occasioned in writing for it, and it is hazardous nothing to predict that the new special edition devoted to the election which has just taken place will be pre-eminently the text-book of 1892.

As there will doubtless be an immense demand for the book, it would be well for all desiring a copy to write at once to C. K. Lord, as the copies will be sent out to those making application on the principle of first come first served. Envelopes will be addressed as applications come in, so that there may be no delay in mailing when the work is received from the binder.

Northwest Notes.

Missoula is annoyed by sneak thieves. Butter and eggs are worth fifty cents at Bitter Root.

The first house erected in Miles City is still standing.

The big ditch at Billings will be completed soon.

The Methodists of Missoula have an Irish minister, the Baptists are represented by a Scotchman, and so are the Episcopalians, while a native of Italy ministers to the worshippers in the Catholic faith.

The Miles City Press gives the following: A railroad employe in charge of a section house near Billings, named Melvin A. Clay, was brought to town recently by his wife and was consigned to the care of the sheriff on account of being crazy. His lunacy consists chiefly in a hallucination that he is on board a steamboat. Drs. Redd and Weed and Mr. J. J. Graham have been appointed a committee to take charge of him, and the unfortunate man's condition is said to be gradually improving.

Miles City Press, 14: The Myers brothers begin their shipment of cattle to Chicago to-day. The entire lot will require twenty-five cars, constituting one entire train. Mr. Geo. W. Myers will leave town to-morrow and after concluding his business in Chicago will proceed to Ohio and Canada for the purpose of purchasing several hundred thoroughbred rams, which will be added to their herd on the Powder river at the earliest practicable day, probably before the middle of December.

Helena Herald: Col. Dodge informs us that work on the Bozeman tunnel is not proceeding so satisfactorily as on the Muller tunnel, which was pushed forward forty-nine feet last week. The Bozeman tunnel requires timbering all the way so far, and the water is so troublesome that no attempt will be made to sink a central shaft and work both ways from that. The extra cost will not be justified by the additional progress that could be made by the grade being made over the mountain there will be no delay occasioned by the difficulties experienced at the tunnel.

Brave Beam, who was hanged yesterday at Yankton, for several days before the execution was kept chained to the wall, and simply given a mattress to lie upon. He was determined to take his own life, but this he was unable to do. According to the Press and Dakotian he was bitter in his denunciations of Sitting Bull, who he thought could have done something to save him. He said Sitting Bull was a bad Indian and that Brave Beam was the good Indian who induced the last of the Sioux hostiles to surrender. The result as he figured it was that the bad Indian enjoys luxurious treatment and the good Indian is condemned to a felon's death. In the Indian understanding this is not justice.

Calamity Jane Settles Down.

[Deadwood Pioneer].

The report that reached Deadwood some time ago to the effect that Calamity Jane had been induced by domestic infelicities to return to the purities of Miles City society, it seems is unfounded. One of the party who came in from that camp with Evans' mule train last Tuesday, and who knew Calamity in the Hills, assures us that she is still with her husband, living on a ranch in the Yellowstone valley, below Miles City, and that she has been blessed with an issue in the form of a bright looking boy baby, which she calls Little Calamity, as she has been unable to find a name nice enough for him. Calamity assured our informant that she had been thoroughly regenerated, and that during the balance of her days she intended to live a quiet, domestic, granger life, only visiting town occasionally to hear the band play. She allowed that there was nothing in gypsying around on the frontier; that she had become tired of it, and that there was only solid comfort in training up little Calamities for the presidency of the United States. At this point she raised her little bundle of humanity to her face, and between kisses exclaimed: "Muzzie's little snootzy darling knows that much, so he does."

Everybody in the Hills, as everybody knows Calamity, will be pleased to learn of her new life and to know that she en joys it.

The Missoulian says that in its collection it has an onion that measures 17 1/2 inches around the waist.

The nobbiest, latest style childrens' and young men's overcoats to be found in the city, is at the St. Paul One Price Clothing House.
